D.C. Takes 'Wait And See' Stance On Pollution Issue

The Daly City city council is taking a "wait and see" attitude on a request from the San Mateo City Council asking for support of a resolution concerning abatement of environment pollution by jet aircraft.

San Mateo councilmen adopted two resolutions in January dealing with pollution by the jets using International Airport.

One resolution concerned itself with pollution of the environment by jet aircraft taking off and landing at the airport.

The other urged legislators to amend appropriate laws to allow the release of motor vehicle fuel taxes (gas tax funds) to combat air pollution and to support mass transportation.

At a study session of the Daly City city council last month City Attorney Albert Polonsky advised the councilmen the matter needs "futher study" by his office.

Since then the requests have been shelved.

San Mateo, it is felt by some officials in Daly City, has more at stake in the matter than the North County city inasmuch as it is in the immediate vicinity of the airport and also in the flight path for incoming planes.

Officials tend to agree that while the jets do make noise passing overhead most of the citizenry have become accustomed to it and the noise pollution, while sometimes irritable, is not unbearable.

Copies of the San Mateo city resolutions were sent out to legislators on the state and county level and to each city in the county.

While some Daly City officials agree efforts should be made toward eliminating all forms of pollution, they are undecided about the use of gas tax funds for this purpose.

However, Daly City often is in the takeoff pattern of the jets roaring out of the airport.

At present, gas tax funds are used solely for those projects directly connected with motor vehicles, such as highways and signal lights.

Jets are creating an atmosphere of sound during warm-up, takeoffs and landings that the San Mateo city council feels is "unpleasant, unhealthy and inconvenient . . ."

When the jets pass over Daly City they are already hundreds of feet in the air and quickly disappear into the clouds.

Reading Evaluation

Strides Being Made, Jeff El Specialists Say

By WILL E. THOMAS
Post City Editor

Reading specialists in the Jefferson Elementary School District think they are making some strides in their "corrective and preventative" reading program under the Miller-Unruh Act.

Mrs. Georgina Nyhan, emphasizing the program is not remedial, is supervising one that has produced an average gain of nine months among the 1,637 first, second and third graders involved.

"The gain (of nine months) is quite significant," Mrs. Nyhan explains. "It's not much less than most children."

"Is that a gain over normal expectancy," she was asked this week.

"Not really," she replied then. "No, we speak in terms of a year . . . take away the summer from the 12 months and what you have is nine months."

And she thinks "that's pretty normal," though she acknowledges, "You may have some who will gain 10 months and you may have some who will gain a full 12 months, but those are the exceptions," she finds.

Why are the youngsters worked with, if the program is not of the better known remedial type?

The youngsters have a "slight problem." It might be one of phonetic or of comprehension and the reading specialists hope to correct the problem to prevent the child "from becoming a remedial case later on," Mrs. Nyhan explains.

"These are the children," she adds, "Who would have been operating one, two or three years behind as they move further up in the grades," although Supt. Frank Greenwood chimes in for clarification that the child still may be behind in contrast to others in the group despite Unruh-Miller Act gains.

The teaching specialists — the district is short four — may work with some of the children three or four months "and they're back in the regular stream."

"It's like anything else," Mrs. Nyhan points out. "The problems that children have have varying degrees, and depending

D.C. Library Fee Increase Is Anticipated

The Daly City library is expected to increase its use fee for non-residents from the present $7.50 to $10.00 at its next regular meeting Monday.

But the new hike will still not bring the fees on a par with what it costs to service non-residents, according to City Mgr. Dave Rowe.

"It actually costs $10.66 to maintain a non-resident," Rowe explained to the council, huddling in a public study session at city hall Monday night.

Mrs. Gertrude Kendree, president of the Board of Trustees of the library, last month asked the council to raise the rates immediately to bring them "in line with the amount Daly City receives from San Mateo County for library service to Broadmoor and Colma residents."

The new rates will affect some 366 non-resident library users, according to Rowe.

Matean Gets Prison Term In Shooting

Choirboy Eric Richard Eleson of San Mateo, convicted of second-degree murder for the July 13 shooting of a Daly City man, was sentenced Monday to a state prison term.

Superior Court Judge W. Howard Hartley, however, sentenced the 19-year-old Eleson under a section of the law that shortens the minimum time he must spend in prison to six months. The usual penalty for second-degree murder is five years to life.

"You're not going to be there too long," Judge Hartley told the youth, "so make the most of it."

The shortened term was recommended by Probation Officer P. A. Tye and concurred in by Deputy District Attorney Robert Bishop and defense lawyer Robert Moran.

When Eleson was convicted January 30 of murdering Eugene Warren O'Brien, 49, in the latter's Broadmoor home, the defendant told the court and jury that he felt he had done the Blue Chip stamps will be one method of acquiring new and better equipment for the San Bruno Teen Center.

Councilmen authorized placement of containers "any place that is appropriate" for collection of the stamps by intested donors. Included will be the center, city hall and the recreation building.

Program's Name Said 'Important'

What's in a name?

Well, the supporters of the Daly City annual summer bilingual Latin Heritage Program consider their's very important.

While the voting members of the city's Neighborhood Council agree the program and the name is important, they feel it should be referred to as the "multi-racial tutoring porgram."

This point was brought out again last week, for the second year, during the annual pursuit of funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Last year, the first year of its operation, the Latin Heritage Program received just over $2,000 of $8,000 in OEO funds for the program, aimed at closing the educational gap created by a language barrier.

Only last week, Mrs. Julia Monares made her plea to the Council for funds for this year's program. She sought $3,000. This request, along with others, will be forwarded to the OEO in Redwood City on March 12.

Although she wants the money, Mrs. Monares stressed that it is not as important as retention of the Latin Heritage name.

Incidentally, she said she already has received confirmation of use of Jefferson Elementary

S.S.F. Review Of Salaries Set Tonight

South San Francisco councilmen set 8 p.m. Wednesday as an adjourned meeting time for review and possible action of a salary survey prepared by the State Cooperative Personnel Services.

The survey originally was presented to the councilmen on January 5. Later that month Merl Hauser, survey director, met with individual employes and employe groups who did not agree with some of his findings.

Hauser filed another report on these disagreements. City Mgr. Tom McKenzie, who incidentally is pushing for immediate action because of budget deadlines, then met with the employes and employe groups to review Hauser's second report with them.

During Monday afternoon's pre-council session McKenzie handed the councilmen a three-page letter setting down his recommendations, resulting from his meeting with the employes.

Councilmen were unanimous in setting the Wednesday night meeting. However, Councilman Patrick Ahern was ready with a motion to grant those "under the rank of department head" the raise suggested by the survey. These range from 2.5 to 7.5 per cent.

"I can't justify a 17½ per cent raise to any department head, though," said Ahern. His reference was to recommendations of the survey to raise the city planner's salary scale from a top of $1,248 a month to $1,483 a month, and to elevate the top

Denied Tile For Jeff El. Will Go Back

The Jefferson Elementary School District's administrators jumped the gun in purchasing $250 worth of accoustical tile for the room the Board of Trustees meets in.

Trustee Mrs. Dorothy Adams asked associate superintendent Roger Barthuli to explain the $250 item, listed among the warrants to be approved by the board for payment of bills.

Barthuli explained the item was for the accoustical tile the trustees voted against buying two weeks ago.

He pointed out that it is not unusual practice for the district to go out and purchase material "in anticipation" that the Board of Trustees ultimately will approve the administration request for it.

But, this time, Barthuli acknowledged, "It will be returned."

DALY CITY HAZARD

Council Agrees Overpass Necessary—But No Money

City officials are in agreement with local parents that a pedestrian overpass is needed near the John F. Kennedy elementary school, but no one seems to know where the money will come from to build it.

Councilman Frank Pacelli suggested a request for funding of the project be submitted to the government for TOPICS money.

But city manager Dave Rowe doesn't think these funds—which are normally used for improving traffic problems in communities—can be used.

"Perhaps we'll make it a traffic flow problem (to qualify it for the funding). If we put stop signs all over the area it would interfere with traffic flow," Pacelli pointed out, adding, "I'm for putting up stop signs in that area."

Parents in the JFK-Colma schools neighborhood have been pushing for an overpass for their children for months.

With widening of the westend of the Guadalupe Canyon Parkway parents fear for the safety of their children attending the schools in the area.

Mrs. H. Carol Hill, secretary of the JFK P-TA, recently informed the school district and the city that some 400 children are in danger of being hit and perhaps killed by cars driving past the school.

At the bottom of the long Guadalupe Canyon Parkway downgrade (westbound) is a sharp "S" curve.

Coupled with the narrow road are the numerous parents who stop in front of the school to pick up their children.

A project is under way at present to improve and widen East Market Street at the foot of the parkway.

When completed the parkway will be the main east-west route between the Bayshore Freeway and the Junipero Serra Freeway.

City engineer Dage Macabee informed the city council Monday that the overpass might be funded with gas tax money.

Meanwhile, council representatives are scheduled to meet with the Jefferson Elementary School Board on March 10 to discuss the situation.

'Review' By Citizens

S.S.F. Pupil Grouping Policy Draws Criticism

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

The South San Francisco Unified School District's policy on pupil grouping has come under critical review by the newly established organization, "Citizens For Quality Education."

A study group of that organization intends to present board members with written recommendations concerning the pupil grouping policy at the next board meeting.

"We are neither for nor against any particular form of grouping," said Sterling Couch, group leader of the study group.

"What we are saying right now is that we feel many principals in the district are hiding behind a policy. When questioned about professional committment they say they can do nothing because 'it is district policy."

The study group, incidentally, is one of several among the membership of Citizens for Quality Education. It was formed in late October of last year by several persons with a common interest in exploring the ideas, the practice, and the effects of various types of pupil grouping in the schools.

Said Couch, "Our study group generally holds the opinion that this (pupil grouping) policy, like all official statements of policy, should be continuously reviewed in light of new facts to determine that policy's right to existence in a constantly changing world."

The group leader also pointed out that it has been "a very active one, uncommon for citizen study groups of its type." He said 16 members have participated in seven meetings during the past four months. "and has spent many hours working to gather information and materials, analyzing the information, and reading the study materials and the reports."

Couch admitted the report is not "a scholarly one prepared by experts." Nor is the report the product of "disgruntled witch-hunters" attempting to embarrass school officials in a loud unreasoned attack on a controversial issue.

The group also surveyed the policies and practices of most of the other school districts in north county, plus read government

S.S.F. Symbol Ruling Due

An important decision has to be made by the South San Francisco councilmen by their March 16 meeting.

They must decide what they want—symbol-wise—as a city flag.

The members of the Girl Scout Troop 729 Monday night presented the councilmen with three possibilities. They say they need a city flag to display and carry as a part of their activities. The next function is April 19, and they still have to sew it.

Councilmen said they understood the urgency and would certainly have their decision by next meeting.

'POLLUTION AND YOU'

The Jefferson High School District's adult school will present the second in a series of four forums, "Pollution and You," at the Westmoor High School Little Theatre March 9.

A "Planned Parenthood" panel will be part of the program, according to Adult School director Thomas Redmond.

The forum will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Definite Increase In 'Heavy Drug' Use

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Post-Times Writer

There is a definite increase in the use of "heavier" drugs among youth in the Jefferson Union High School District and youth have become more sophisticated in using these drugs.

This was the consensus of a joint meeting of administrators from the district's six high schools at Westmoor High School in Daly City.

The "heavier drugs," it was explained, are heroin and methadrine (speed).

Dr. Floyd Gonella, assistant superintendent of the district, said students had become far more sophisticated in the way they now handle drugs—such as LSD.

"This is a bad situation. Users have matured in the use of drugs and its harder to tell if a student is on a 'trip' or not," Gonella said.

Jefferson High School nurse Edna Daniels labeled present day use of drugs among the district's youth as "insidious" and concurred with Gonella's comments of current trends in the use of the heavier drugs.

School officials likewise noted a substantial increase in the number of students drinking wine and beer.

Gonella pointed out that alcoholic beverages are "pretty free to get" in the area.

The amount of marijuana and LSD being used today in the district is about the same as in previous months, however it appears that use of these drugs occurs in "spurts."

"For weeks nothing happens and suddenly we experience quite a bit of drug activity on campuses," Gonella said.

Asked where kids get these drugs, Gonella explained "Outside-of-schoolers, those kids who are high school dropouts. They hang around the school and present problems. These are the main sources of drugs. We suspect adults, but so far have not detected any."

A county-wide narcotics study concluded recently support these conclusions.

At each school, students participating in "rap" sessions have also verified increased use of drugs at the district's six schools. No one school was singled out for special attention in the discussion.

But the fact apparently hit the trustees hard and they immediately requested administrators to work out a hardline policy on handling the drug situation on campus.

It was further suggested that parents of drug users be encouraged to participate in classes aimed at teaching them how to cope with their problem.

As a last resort so-called "hard users" might be shifted to special facilities or just dropped from school.

"There has to be a close association between parents and teachers, along with the city," Gonella said, adding "there must be a complete community effort on this problem."

wage of the assistant city clerk from $1,078 to $1,279 per month.

Councilman Frank Mammini offered that these were not to be considered "a raise adjustment, rather elevation to positions they justly deserve."

Said Councilman Ahern, "Call it anything you want, but it's a change in pay."

Westborough resident Don Gamma nipped at Ahern, saying, "call names, names and positions, positions. Let's spell out periods of time people have had to wait for a pay raise. And whether this city's department heads are making less then other cities of comparable size."

McKenzie's recommendations concerned the following:

Police clerk matron, which he recommends no change in the salary range. It had a proposal to drop from a top of $696 to $648 a month.

Assistant civil engineer, which he recommends an increase in salary, from a top of $1078 to a top of $1104 a month.

Junior civil engineer, which he recommends no change. It is a new classification with a scale of $786 to $954 a month.

S.S.F. Pupil Group Policy Draws Criticism

educational publications, National Education Association, publications, books, journals and magazines.

What have they found?

The majority of elementary schools in the district (seven out of thirteen) are not complying with the established policy of the board, in that they are practicing a form of pupil-grouping other than homogeneous.

These variations have usually been called "pilot programs" by the district administration

"While we believe that innovation is necessary in the educational process, we find it highly unusual that a policy which is still officially stated is observed more with non-compliance than it is with compliance," said the report.

That research studies completed and published by the U.S. Office of Education and the National Education Association since the adoption in 1964 of the present board policy conclude that the studies on the relative effectiveness of various types of grouping are, even at best, inconclusive as to their results.

"One of the most widely accepted conclusions of the recent research on this subject is that factors other than the particular grouping methods used are believed to account for most differences in achievement gains," said the report. "In the U.S. Office of Education publication of 1966, we found the following tentative conclusion: " . . . a factor of special interest in the studies available is that, on the average, achievement gains made by pupils in classrooms representing more than a normal spread of differences among children were higher than average gains made by pupils in ability-grouped classrooms."

Another quotation from the same publication reads: "'Among the most enlightening results of research is increased knowledge of the difficulties in attempting to divide children into ability groups.

"Except in a limited sense and for short periods of time, success in organizing children according to ability is probably an unrealistic expectation especially in the elementary school."

One further quote from the publication was: "In view of the evidence, ample opportunity for flexibility in grouping children in the elementary school seems essential in order to provide opportunities for meeting changing needs of children as well as to meet a number of different purposes."

What does the group recommend?

That the board rescind its policy. "We feel that no policy at all is preferable to a policy which is observed more in its violation than in its adherence," said Couch.

"In this connection, we have studied the District's "Rules and Regulations for Student Grouping Policy — 1969-70" and have noted the arguments that the present policy contains sufficient "flexibility" to meet the needs of the district," he continued. "It is our opinion that, again, no policy at all is preferable to a "policy" which leads itself to such varied interpretation that it will permit one school to be organized in planned hetereogeneous grouping while another is organized with rigid homogeneous grouping, both under the shield of one statement of "policy" on student grouping."

The group also suggests the Board direct the superintendent to permit the implementation at each school of the grouping plan determined by the principal and faculty of that school as the best for that school's needs, providing that such a plan shows evidence of the professional knowledge and responsibility which should be a requirement for appointment as school principal or members of the faculty.

"This recommendation does not lessen the amount of authority of the district administrative officials to approve or disapprove the proposed plans for student organization," said Couch. "It only changes their role from one of imposing unnecessary restrictions from the top down to a role of providing the professional supervision, guidance, management, and encouragement of their principals and faculties."

"We think that this accountability of principals and faculties will both improve their performance and lessen the oftenstrained tensions which now exist," said Couch.

"We think that useful creativity and responsiveness to student needs best comes from those closest to the student — the faculties at the schools themselves. We think that control should be exercised only when the schools demonstrate the need for such control."

Reading Program Is Gaining

get them back to the regular stream."

In the first two grades they work almost entirely in the pupil's own classroom. ("Not quite," she admits, "because there are always different circumstances.") — "right with the classroom teacher and do not pull the children out in groups."

Mrs. Nyhan and others on her staff are in a position to anticipate that certain numbers of pupils at specific schools will fall in each of three levels of "progress."

The items come under a general heading, "Progress," with two shades thereof — "much progress" and "some progress" — plus a third level, "no progress."

Here's why the reading specialist is considered a necessity:

"In many of the schools we found that a very high percentage — in excess of 50 per cent of these children qualified in the lowest 25 per cent," Superintendent Greenwood emphasizes.

The progress — if any, is seen as the child moves up through the other two primary grades.

"The second year, the same groups of children had moved to the point where there probably were only 20 per cent in that lowest quartile rating for second graders," Greenwood explains, "and they were completely out of it in the third year."

Mrs. Nyhan has a large, easily read chart that shows statistically what the program has achieved. Perhaps, if you're trained, you might determine from it what hasn't been done.

For instance, she shows and tells you that in the first three grades since the first year of the Miller-Unruh reading program, 1966-67, there have been 1,637 children served.

Of those numbers, 838 showed "much progress," 789 "some progress," and only ten tested in with "no progress."

The average gain has been seven months.

But the chart shows — forgetting averages — that since its inception, the district, as it relates to Miller-Unruh, has seen a total of nine months gain.

The total months gained over all the years of the M-U program: first grade, six; second grade, seven; third grade, nine.

A final question is dumped in her lap:

"What percentage of children are reading on grade level when they reach the fourth grade?"

Mrs. Nyhan doesn't know yet.

"I just can't give you that percentage. I think that is something we could possibly do at a later date."

She explains that the district is "just now focusing in on the data we got back on the sixth grade tests (given last November) and it is my understanding that this will be presented."

It appears there will be an evaluation of the Jefferson Elementary School District's reading program sometime soon, though how soon apparently still remains unsettled in the minds of some trustees.

Supt. Frank Greenwood, in the meantime, has been directed to gather and have ready in two weeks the varied agencies who might be willing at this time to conduct such an evaluation.

Name Of Program 'Very Important'

School District classrooms and facilities of "at least $7,000 in kind" for this year's program. The school district participated last year, too.

The thing they are striving for, according to Mrs. Monares, is to promote a better self-image for the Latin Americans while also giving them the opportunity to help themselves improve that image.

Her contention, as with her followers, is that there is no racial issue, rather a language issue. They don't care if the tutors are black, white, purple or green as long as they can read, write, speak and understand Spanish.

This latter requirement — to understand — is really the crux of the entire matter.

It's more than a mere matter of translation and interpretation, according to Mrs. Monares. She's saying in essence; how can you work with a child who has a poor self-image if you do not fully understand his cultural background and are able to give him pride in that background, yet teach him to understand his relationships in another culture, while retaining that pride.

right thing when he killed O'Brien and declared that he intended to commit suicide. Eleson later recanted, however, and blamed the outburst on the shock of the conviction.

Eleson, who said he wants to go to college and become a minister, told Tye that he had been left to baby-sit the two O'Brien children. Mrs. Virginia O'Brien, 39, told him not to let her husband, from whom she was separated, into the house, the defendant related.

O'Brien came to the home, Eleson said, and let himself in with a key. The youth got a gun from under a mattress and ordered O'Brien to leave but the older man only scoffed at him and called police. While police were on the way, Eleson said, O'Brien jumped at him and in the struggle that followed O'Brien was shot six times. The youth said he tried twice to get out of the apartment but was stopped by O'Brien.

Papan Chides Daly City 'Lack Of Communication'

Lack of communications between the citizens and the council is a major concern of council candidate Louis J. Papan who vowed to improve this problem if elected in April.

"In order to be effective, a councilman must have the ability to communicate with not only the people of his city, but fellow councilmen as well," Papan said.

He noted a breakdown in communications between the citizens and some council members in recent months.

"Any shortcomings in getting a valid point across to other councilmen, or to the public at large, could have a detrimental effect on the welfare of the citizens of Daly City," Papan said.

The council aspirant refused to pinpoint the communications gap which, he charged, has stymied some projects in the city.

"If it were not for the seemingly untiring efforts of the majority of councilmen, progress in Daly City would have ground to a halt two years ago," he said.

He likewise accused some council candidates of wanting to get on the council for the sole purpose of "rocking the boat."

"This would not relieve the present situation and would tend only to disrupt what progress is now being made in this fast-growing city, solely for the purpose of disruption, "Papan explained.

'Cover Up' Business

"Cover Up" is the name of a Junior Achievement company formed by a club made up of San Francisco area youngsters in the tenth to twelfth grades, including three from Daly City.

Keith Thomas, Clyde Twyman and Carol Manbert of Daly City are among the young people who meet each Thursday at 1455 Bush Street in San Francisco to tend to their Junior Achievement "business."

The youth in Junior Achievement is prepared for the business of today, Thomas points out.

San Bruno 'Card Game'

Merchants Rap Poker Proposal

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

Cards were dealt last week in San Bruno in a game that involves a poker cardroom business showdown between merchants along San Mateo Avenue and San Franciscan Howard L. DeLong Jr.

First indications are that DeLong, who is seeking a business license to operate a cardroom at 478 San Mateo Ave., is holding the strong hand. Last week however, he wasn't at the council meeting to play it.

Although DeLong hasn't officially received the business permit, City Clerk Carl Hultberg said the issuance of the license requires only approvals from the city's fire and building departments. These requirements are to assure the physical structure meets city codes.

Councilman George Corey put his chips in the game by calling for the councilmen to "do everything they can properly do to prevent the cardroom from operating at this specific location."

He said he "didn't want to make decisions tonight," but moved that the police and fire chief, city attorney and city manager all put their heads together to investigate the possibilities of an emergency ordinance, if necessary.

With the exception of Councilman George Ingham, who abstained, all councilmen concurred with Corey's motion. Ingham dropped out because another party, who incidentally showed up at city hall yesterday morning seeking procedures in obtaining a business license, has an option to lease real estate owned by the councilmen for the purpose of operating a card room. This property is located on El Camino Real.

Jim Faverman, president of the Chamber of Commerce's Merchants Association, made the opening bid with a prepared statement.

"The merchants feel a gambling club in this area will attract the wrong kind of customer. Card rooms have a reputation for bringing trouble."

Faverman went on to explain that the location would be unsuitable because it is surrounded by two banks, two savings and loan companies, a men's clothing shop and a children's store. "A very poor location for a gambling club," said Faverman.

He also cited parking problems (San Mateo Avenue is infamous for its lack of parking area) and a fire hazard.

"Gentlemen, a gambling shop in the middle of our busiest shopping district will not only chase shoppers away, and kill retail business in the area, but will create a public nuisance that will mean added cost in police protection, fire protection, and loss of taxes to the city.

"The police department may consider another gambling club in San Bruno, particularly in the heart of the retail shopping district, an added policing problem," said Faverman.

Looked upon for a statement, Police Chief Russell Cunningham's only comment was, with a smile, "I'm amazed at the reckless way you use the word gambling. There is no gambling. All are lawful games."

Don Risso, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said "No. Its' not gambling. Just California Poker." He went on to plea for the merchants, saying, "They have their heart, soul and life savings invested in their businesses along this street.

"If one club comes in, there will soon be more clubs. We understand a second request already has been received today," said Risso. This was confirmed by Hultberg, and was the reason for Councilman Ingham's abstension.

"What can we do to preserve this area as a retail shopping street?" asked Risso. "We don't want a street of honky tonks."

Faverman, however, emphasized that the merchants were not objecting to the men who want to open up the cardroom.

"They appear to be honorable men who only expect business executives and well-to-do housewives to gamble at their club," he said.

"They admittedly have no experience in the gambling business and cannot guarantee that their customers will be business executives and well-to-do housewives.

"They expected the merchants to welcome a gambling club in the busiest shopping district in town with open arms," continued Faverman. "If they were wrong in this assumption, I wonder how correct they will be in assuming they will attract business executives and well-to-do housewives to their club?"

Adult School Registration

The Jefferson Union High School District Adult Divisin, announced today that the brochure for the Spring Quarter will carry an advance registration period from March 9 through March 19.

All adults interested in registering early for the courses in the Adult Program may now do so during the advance registration period by going to the office of the high school in which the desired course is being offered and registering there between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday.

Bomb Threat

The Sea Bowl in Pacifica was evacuated for a short period Wednesday after a bomb threat was received by the manager.

A Fire Department spokesman, noting that an engine company and Pacifica police responded to check out the threat, said Manager Millvurn Sullivan cleard the bowling alley of patrons until after the hour the "bomb" was supposed to explode.

No bomb was found.

FAMISHED BEETLES—Homeowner Jack Armas points to tiny holes drilled by Texas powder post bugs in his kitchen cabinets. The beetles will continue to eat away interior of wood products unless killed. (Post Photo)

Uniform Is Enough To Show Patriotism Of Policemen

Thanks, but no thanks, is the way San Bruno Police Chief Russell Cunningham feels about an offer to supply his men with miniature U.S. flags for their uniforms.

"In these times, just the fact a policeman is wearing a uniform, he is demonstrating his patriotism," said Cunningham, in a letter read by City Mgr. Gerard Vergeer recently.

Cunningham's statement was in reply to an offer by Frank Wheless, representing San Bruno veterans of World War I.

Wheless noted that many police departments throughout the country, and some in this county, have recently added the flag emblem to their uniforms as a show of patriotism.

He said his group would gladly pay for the miniature flags if the police department showed a decided interest in wearing them.

Cunningham said he thought policemen's uniforms already contain more than enough badges, patches and paraphernalia. "They should not have to wear flags to denote patriotism," he said.

This matter never was brought up at the council session. But a request for flags was. This was a request by a San Bruno resident now in Viet Nam, Pfc. James A. Bousquet.

Bousquet requested the councilmen, if possible, send him four state flags. Mayor Neil Christal said he would pass this request along to Wheless.

BURGLARY

Burglars carted off between 35-50 cases of beer from the Luca Market, 7370 Mission Street, Daly City owner Tom Stanghellini reported.

The beer was stolen from a rear storage shed, police said.

Unwanted Visitors Invade Terra Loma

By FRANK LAPIERRE
Post-Times Writer

The powder post beetles are unlike "normal" Texas exports. Rather than being huge, they are tiny and are blessed with a voracious appetite.

This appetite sends them chomping through most any kind of wood and the only sign that they are "invading" is when a small pin-sized hole and tiny pile of residue appears on wood surfaces.

Jack Armas, owner of a $30,500 plus home at 262 Dennis Drive, complained to this newspaper yesterday that attempts to have the builder—Alpha Homes—stem the invasion and correct the situation that is affecting his home and others along Dennis Drive have failed.

Armas said he spoke with Wes Williams, vice president of Alpha, and was told the company would only paint bug poison on the cabinets.

"I was told by a San Mateo pest control company that it takes more than 'painting poison' to get rid of those bugs," Armas said. "I was told the only way to insure that those beetles are killed is by fumigating the entire home."

A similar situation struck another home, owned by a relative of a high ranking Daly City official, some weeks ago and the company had the home completely fumigated.

Alpha was not available for comment.

The beetles were brought into the development hidden in kitchen cabinets. No one noticed them until they hatched and began their customary dining.

Now a half dozen homes have been hit and as one homeowner commented "while we're talking, those bugs are eating."

Three Plaques Presented At Bruno Council Meet

Three plaques were presented at the Feb. 24 San Bruno city council meeting. Mayor Neil Christal made the presentations.

Councilman George Ingham received a belated commendation for his service as the immediate past mayor.

Tony Governale, who recently resigned his park and recreation post to campaign for a council seat, was recognized for his time with that body.

And Traffic Safety Commissioner Steve Pardini was honored for his eight years of service to the city. Pardini was not present to accept the plaque.

Incidentally, the audience of about 50 persons included three of the four challengers for the three city council seats opening up, Governale, Richard Griffith and Ted Long, indicating that "politics" is in the air.

Bid Action Is Put Off

Action on bids for installation of San Bruno's cable television system has been put off for two weeks.

City Manager Gerard Vergeer requested the postponenment because he "hasn't had time to analyze the bids."

Four bids were received Tuesday afternoon.

Vergeer said one of the bids came in without the proper bonding, others were not complete, but there are "quite a few points where the bids can be compared," he said.

The city manager will have a full report at the next council session.

LINDA MAR SHOPPING CENTER, PACIFICA 355-7070

WHEN THE W. T. GRANT company reopens its enlarged Linda Mar store in Pacifica at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, it will offer the newest fashions and furbishings in pleasant-to-shop-in surroundings.

Grand Reopening Of Pacifica Store

Highlighting the 9:30 a.m., Thursday grand opening of W. T. Grants in Pacifica, is the enlarged major appliance department.

Carrying a full line and selection of models and colors, the Bradford line is augmented by small appliances such as mixers, toasters, and irons, according to Mgr. Bill Hammer.

The original 2750 feet of counterspace has been increased to 5800 feet, and the facilities now include snack bar for hungry shoppers. The enlarged Grants store is adding new employees to its original staff of 40.

Long a pioneer in enlightened personnel practices, the W. T. Grant Company has developed programs for training young people for executive positions, hiring the disadvantaged, and, most recently, encouraging contributions to colleges and universities by instituting a dollar-matching program for its employees.

Many of the fringe benefits now enjoyed by employees in other organizations have been standard operating procedure for many years with Grants.

Hammer has a broad range of retailing experience with 16 years of service in the Grant organization.

Sophomores Hold Party

The Senior Citizens Friendship Club was treated to a Valentine's Day party by sophomore students of Crestmoor High School.

The students are taking an English class called Insights, taught by Mrs. Sharon Dunn. The class involves itself with all age groups in several agencies.

Games, decorations and a banner proclaiming that "Today is the first day of the rest of your life," were provided by the students.

Among the crowd of guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Kennaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Gillespie, Mrs. Edward Odenthal, Mrs. Sam Krisp, Mrs. Robert Engle, Mrs. William Schumacher, Mrs. Leory Mitchell and Mrs. Veronica Pack, all of Daly City.

Attending from South San Francisco, were Mr. and Mrs. I. L. Milam, Mr. and Mrs. William Borba Sr., and Mrs. Harry Farros, Mrs. Ralph Marcus, Mrs. Gerald Monkman, Mrs. John Marino, Mrs. Arnold Heard and Mrs. Richard White.

Colma guests were Blanche Lagomarsino and Enid Noble.

Weather Permitting, S.S.F. Will Stage Kite Contest

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department is sponsoring its first annual Industrial City Kite Contest on Saturday — wind and weather permitting.

The contest will run between 1 and 3 p.m. at Orange Memorial Park, with judging scheduled for 2 p.m.

All Bay Area boys, girls, teens and adults are invited to enter, with awards going to:

Most unusual, most unique design, greatest vertical height; most unusual tail, largest and smallest flyable kites.

No prior registration is required. The contest is free and the only safety restriction is that string must be used for line rather than wire.

In addition to the contest, a playground pop art show with an anti-air pollution theme is slated for the Orange Recreation Center Building.

Southwood Junior High

'Parade Of Bands' Concert; Honor Society Initation

Southwood Junior High School's Band will perform at the fifth annual "Parade of Bands" March 15.

This event will be held at the South San Francisco High School Auditorium from 2 to 4 p.m. Bands from all of the junior high schools in the South San Francisco Unified School District will participate in the program, and will give the members of the bands an opportunity to perform in public and to hear the other junior high school's bands.

Students and their families of South San Francisco are invited to attend.

The Southwood Band is planning to play "Red White and Blue March," "Prelude and Fugue," "Palo Alto," with Brian McSweeney playing an alto saxophone solo, and "Samba for Flutes" featuring the flute section of the band.

Southwood began an activity schedule recently. It will be in effect each Tuesday of the month. The only exception is if a month has a fifth Tuesday; in which case the school will be on a regular time schedule.

Students not participating in activities must report to available rooms by 8:05 a.m. The clubs and activities that meet on the first and third Tuesdays are: Chess, Letterman, G.A.A., Student Council, Jogging, Yearbook, Games, Stage Crew, and Spelling.

On the second and fourth Tuesdays, the following clubs and activities meet: Pep, Honor Society, Library, Red Cross, Spelling, Publications, Stamp and Coin, and Girls' Glee.

The schedule has worked very well so far and the students have been very receptive to it. It is hoped that this activities schedule will give the students an opportunity to become active in several campus organizations this year.

Miss Kathy Jones, the education consultant on the West Coast for the Peace Corps, spoke to the students at Southwood Junior High School recently. Two assemblies were held in the school's multi-use room where Miss ones spoke about the Peace Corps.

Miss Jones informed the students of her position as a volunteer worker in the program. She was stationed in Japan and Micronesia, spending two years on the different islands. Excellent slides were shown to the students during both presentations.

It was also mentioned that the students of Southwood could become a cooperative school by raising funds to build a school on one of the islands. The cost of a new school is only $1,000 and the students' of Southwood would raise the necessary funds.

At the present time, the Student Council of Southwood is in the process of talking about this program. However, no definite plans have been made.

"An Evening With the Drama Class" was presented at Southwood February 26-27.

The students, under the direction of Miss Catherine Jianopoulos, performed the following: "I remember Mama" with P. McFee, M. Aquilina, K. Hope, J. Townsend, M. Hillsinger, and V. Silva; "Sorry Wrong Number" featuring J. Manley; "Best Friends" with V. Hildebrand, A. Nichols, K. Olivera, S. Chavez, R. Millar, and T. Hallet; "Turtle Heads" featuring M. Hillsinger and C. Hedlund, and "The Pages of Pentacles" with the entire Drama Class participating.

The stage manager for the different productions was S. Marzetta. Programs were handled by V. Clark. Steve Griffis and George Pikios were in charge of the tickets. The stage crew consisted of P. Reseco, K. Johnson, and L. Beverage. The lights and curtain were handled by M. Matysik and W. Jones.

Members of the Publications Club at Southwood held an ice skating party recently. The outing was held at the Burlingame Ice Skating Rink.

The outing proved successful, even with only five students and three factuly members attending. The students that attended were: Sheri Eisenberg, Peggy McKeon, Brian McLean, Denise Monnet, and Barbara Stamatis. The outing ended with hot chocolate ice cream sunades at Denny's Restaurant in Burlingame.

A special guest at this outing was Miss Mary Crusick, daughter of Southwood's assistant principal, Nick Crusick.

Chamber Is Told:

'SSF Stands Against Bay Fill'

Nearly 50 members of the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce were told Wednesday noon that the city's general plan takes a strong stand against bay fill.

This was only a portion of what City Planner Dan Pass expounded upon in what he called his "15-minute" talk on "What is this thing called the general plan? Who needs it?"

Pass, a sometimes comic, jokingly said he also had an hour and 40-minute talk on the subject. He then had his assistant Bill Timmons pass around enough literature on the subject to seemingly fortify this statement.

Pass briefly went through the history of the city's general plan from the first in 1913, which wasn't approved, to the 1969 version. Interestingly, the second plan, adopted in 1947, was a product of Hahn, Wise and Associates.

But Pass referred to the 1963 general plan as "the first modern general plan" and said it is still fundamentally what the city is working with now.

Another interesting fact pointed out by the city planner was that South San Francisco was one of the first cities in the state to have a complete housing element. "This is so significant it equals the rest of the plan in its entirety," said Pass. San Bruno, for instance, is presently in the throes of sdopting their housing element.

Pass noted that the plan is increasingly progressive toward retail trade, adding that builders, subdividers and industrialists also benefit from it.

On the topic of the San Francisco Bay, he said, "It is the area's most important physical feature. The entire ecology or environment, if you prefer, is based on the retention of this bay with its marshes, mud flats and wildlife."

Pass noted also that the plan is not a final document. "It can be revised, altered or disposed of at any time. It is flexible and is intended to grow with the community.

"Even general plan eroders need the general plan," said Pass with a twinge of sarcasm. "For if blight infestation and urban decline rules the day, what will be left for them to erode?"

State Approves Area Projects

Projects that will improve the drainage at State highway locations in South San Francisco were among those approved for financing by the California Highway Commission during a business meeting held in El Centro.

Fifteen thousand dollars was allocated for culvert construction at Twelve Mile Creek in South San Francisco. The culvert originally was planned for construction in fiscal year 1971-1972 as part of a Division contract that will widen Route 82 to a six-lane thoroughfare between Orange and Chestnut Avenues.

The culvert's construction was moved forward and will be built soon to coincide with a San Mateo County project that will extend Westborough Boulevard from Junipero Serra Boulevard to Route 82.

When the State's construction begins, traffic can be diverted over the culvert to allow for demolition of the existing Twelve Mile Creek Bridge.

This can reduce the time of the State's contract by two months.

Lutherans' 4th Lenten Meditation

First Lutheran Church of South San Francisco will have as its fourth Lenten meditation, "The Abundant Life Abounds in Prayer" today at 7:30 p.m., with the Rev. Trenton R. Ferro officiating.

On Sunday, Chaplain Vernon Kottner, presently serving San Francisco Hospital as full-time chaplain, will be guest preacher substituting for Reverend Ferro, who will be on a weekend snow trip with the Walther League youth group.

Since the leaguers will not be in town on their scheduled day to help Laguna Honda Home patients to chapel services, Mrs. David Raff's eighth grade Sunday School class will substitute for them as part of their activities for the day which also includes a picnic trip to the beach.

Students from the seventh and eighth grade classes in Sunday School recently participated in a banner, suitable for the Lenten services.

The banner hangs from the pulpit and carries the theme of the Christian's purpose for worshipping.

The banner symbolizes the two-fold commands "Come See" Him who was born, which is denoted by the evergreens of the Christmas tree, and has died for you—the nails depict this; He is the Lord of all who believe in Him, denoted by a crown. "Go Tell" the Good Good News of salvation to others, portrayed by a herald's horn throughout the world, showing the world with a dove representing the Holy Spirit who works faith in the hearts of men when they have heard the Good News proclaimed.

The banner is also being used to remind of the seventy-fifth anniversary of mission work supported by the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, which commissioned two men to go to India in 1894 to start a mission program which now involves over 350 American workers plus their families in 18 countries and areas.

Students working on this were Cheryl Green, Matt Johnson, Tom Schornstein and Dennis Dougherty, all eighth graders. Kim Goff, Cheryl Silvas, Barbara Miller, Maureen Cahill, Debbie Sivell, Andy Cortez, Ronald Blake, and Ricky Cornejo all seventh graders under the direction of Mrs. John Blake. Materials were furnished by the Aid Association for Lutherans Insurance Branch 3064.

Registration for all South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department free programs will take place on only two days, March 19-20.

All Spring recreation programs having a fee will be registered on a first come, first served basis, until that class or program is full.

Registration for judo, guitar, social dance classes and bridge lessons will be taken on these two days at the administrative offices of the Recreation and Park Department, Magnolia Recreation Center, Grand and Magnolia Avenues from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Plans Fee Adopted By Supervisors

A new schedule of application fees recommended by the County Planning Commission, showing substantial increases in several categories, has been adopted by the Board of Supervisors.

Planning Director Reino Llukkonen told the board that the new fees will more nearly meet the cost of processing applications and are more in line with those charged in other counties.

Applications for rezoning will remain at $100 but a new fee of $200 has been added for planned unit development zo11ning.

The fee for subdivisions, formerly $10, was boosted to $50, plus $1 per lot. Resubdivisions, formerly $1 per lot, now call for a flat fee of $50. Variances are up from $35 to $50. Use permits were doubled to $50. Logging permits, formerly $25, will now require a $50 fee, plus $20 for each inspection up to four inspections a month.

A sliding scale of grading fees, based upon volume of earth to be moved, is included. The fee for 300 cubic yards, for example, will be $45, and the fee for 500,000 cubic yards $860.

Oil Spill's Origin Still Is Mystery

By BOB PETERSON
Post Times Writer

If pleasure craft owners at South San Francisco's Oyster Point Marina are waiting for the party that spilled the oil that covers their boats to pay the damage, they may have a long wait.

As pointed out earlier, the slick came into the marina on a wave, and that certainly makes its origin difficult to prove.

Also as pointed out earlier, some of the owners suspicioned said they were "investigating" this possibility. Friday a Coast a Navy barge at Hunters Point. An earlier Coast Guard report Guard officer confirmed that there was a spill at Hunters Point the week before.

Does that mean this same oil is what has put the black gooey rings around the sailboats?

Not necessarily, says the U.S. Navy. A spokesman for the Navy at Hunters Point referred this question to the public affairs office at Treasure Island, who put it to the admiralty claims officer.

He said, "The Navy has received allegations that a spill occurred at Hunters Point." He didn't say there was a spill. "This (spill) we are routinely investigating."

He also said he had referred the matter to the U.S. Salvage Association, "which handles these things," and they are conducting a survey.

Steve Medcalf, commodore of the Oyster Point Yacht Club, confimed that "a man representing the Navy" was surveying the damages to craft at the Marina.

Said the Navy's claims officer, "We are not going to admit liability. Hunter's Point is a long way from Oyster Point. There are a lot of ships in the Bay."

As can be seen, red tape together with spilled oil makes for a sticky situation.

S.S.F. Hires Consultant On Overpass

Recommendation as to whether there should be an overpass at the Camaritas and Orange Avenue intersection of the Westborough Boulevard extension in South San Francisco will be made by the firm of Deleuw Cather, Inc., of San Francisco.

The firm will be paid $1650 for its services. City Mgr. Tom McKenzie said the survey should be completed within three weeks.

Question of an overpass has been a hotly contested issue, including reference to political favors.

Buri Buri residents feel they need it, and, for that matter, had it promised to them years ago. Westborough residents, however, feel a complete survey should be made to determine whether the city should expend funds on something that may not be the answer to pedestrian traffic problems.

Mayor Frank Bertucelli and Councilman Patrick Ahern have sided with the Buri Buri residents, while Councilmen Frank Mammini, Andrew Rocca and Warren Steinkamp favored the study.

Blaze Was 'Not So Bad'

That tall, black column of smoke you saw Thursday over South San Francisco "was not as bad as you might think," firemen in that industrial city said.

What was going up in flame, creating the smoke at 4:39 p.m., was a shed full of garden tools and equipment in the backyard of 154 Knoll Circle.

About $500 damage was estimated by South San Francisco fire officials, who did not disclose the origin.

Use Permit Is Issued

A use permit has been issued to San Mateo County by the South San Francisco planning commission for construction of the Northern Judicial Court building.

The addition to the present facility also will necessitate a redesigning of an adjacent playground area, which will be fenced off from the court.

Commissioners also approved a tentative parcel map of Cabot, Cabot and Forbes. The map represents the rearrangement of two lots on the southwest corner of Forbes Boulevard and Kauffmann Court.

Shots Fired At Teacher, 3 Students

Four South San Francisco youths were jailed on kidnaping and attempted murder charges last week after they allegedly terrorized a college professor and two students with guns on San Bruno Mountain.

The victims said that more than a dozen shots were fired over their heads or at their feet by the suspects, who were armed with two rifles and a revolver. No one was injured.

Booked at county jail were Terrence Gary Wasson, 20, of 157 Pecks Lane; George Andrew Trakas, 19, of 19 Chapman Avenue, and Charles Ernest Brown, 18, of 420 Maple Avenue. Taken to Hillcrest Juvenile Hall was Donald Dee Dowell, 17-year-old Marine of 154 Gardiner Avenue, Apt. A.

Deputy Sheriff John C. Cooper identified the victims as Theodore F. Niehaus, 32-year-old assistant professor at University of San Francisco, and two of his students, Daren M. Bowers, 22, and William M. Trainor, 20. All gave San Francisco addresses.

Niehaus gave this account to Cooper:

The victims drove to the top of the mountain to collect specimens for biology class. They had walked about a half-mile down a dirt road when they passed two of the suspects, later identified as Dowell and Brown. Brown held a revolver in his right hand.

Niehaus and the students continued on and came upon Trakas and Wasson, both of whom held rifles.

The victims started collecting specimens when they heard five shots behind them. They assumed the young men they had seen were target shooting.

Five minutes later three shots whistled over their heads and Niehaus and the students decided to go back to their car. As they walked back up the hill, three bullets plunked into the ground behind them. The victims "hit the dirt," as four or five more bullets struck the ground close to them.

They scrambled for cover and suddenly found themselves surrounded by the four suspects, who stood no more than 10 feet away. Brown held a pistol and Dowell and Trakas rifles. Wasson did the talking:

"You're laughing at us. My friends said you were making fun of us."

The victims were "too scared" to speak. Wasson then ordered them to "march south. They had walked about 20 feet when five buets struck the ground at their feet. A voice warned them not to turn around.

Niehaus and the students broke into a run and as they fled down the hill more bullets hit the dirt near them. They made it to the safety of a ravine and ran to Hillside School where they asked a school official to help them.

South San Francisco police were called and the suspects were taken into custody.

The rifles were found behind a water heater in the garage at Wasson's home where Dowell said he had hidden them.

OH THE PAIN—Senator Richard Dolwig's Pr-man, Ray Ashwell, confided three weeks ago his boss was "absolutely going to run" and was planning a "vigorous campaign." It was the shortest vigorous campaign in political history! Dolwig stepped out of the picture because of ill health two days after the column item appeared.

TO SHOW THEIR INTEREST in the current drug abuse problem being encountered nowadays, NO ONE showed up for the open discussion held by the Jefferson Union High School District at the Westmoor gym last week.

It proved to be most constructive, with school administrators, a lone student and district nurses talking things out.

As usual the "silent majority" chose to remain silent—matter of fact they chose not to come.

Said Jeff High official Floyd Gonella, "I thought the community was vitally concerned with this problem and wanted to do something about it?" So did we!

WATCH FOR FIRE CHIEF Herb Ritzmann and assistant chief Keith Schrock to move their desks to Daly City city hall next week. Notice on the bulletin board at Fire Headquarters on Lake Merced Boulevard tells the news, but doesn't give the reason.

AND SPEAKING OF THE DCFD—Three more smoke-eaters have left for San Francisco, bringing the 1969-70 total departures to 11 as we predicted last year. The latest contingent included fire captain Jerry Grey, Bob Barbara and Bill Jordan. Five more men are "thinking" about the move. Veteran firefighter Grey took a cut in pay, from $1014 to $983, to go to San Francisco.

The Shadow found out that if conditions (pay, fringe benefits, et al) don't meet with the approval of firemen, Daly City may follow Vallejo firemen's action of last year and walk out—strike, that is!

DID YOU KNOW that local kids ages 9, 10 and 11 are smoking on an increasing scale. Older youth are putting out the tobacco light, but these small fry apparently think it's "cute" to light up.

AND HOW CUM Telly viewers can watch someone stuffing their lungs full of cigarette smoke, but censors will not allow beer sippers to be telecast. P.S. How many whiskey commercials have you ever seen on Teevee or heard on the radio? Whaddaya mean, what's a radio?

ONE FOR THE BOOKS—Seems an irate San Bruno father was admitted for treatment to Peninsula Hospital recently after falling off the roof of his home. The victim was chasing his daughter's beau across the roof, thinking it was a prowler.

FRANK (TOTO) SPADARELLA is expected to file for the 27th Assembly District GOP nomination on March 12. Filing date closes on March 19 and Spadarella is squaring off for a primary battle against Pacifica City Attorney John Sherman. Winner takes on incumbent Leo J. Ryan in November.

THIS SEEMS TO BE our week for Pr-men. Bob Caughlan of Leo Ryan's office informs that his boss spent two weeks in Watts teaching school to learn about conditions in that poverty pocket—not a half-day, as we suggested last week. And the assemblyman "risked his life" at Folsom prison in order to learn about conditions there. When Ryan votes on jail matters coming before the legislature he'll have a "unique perspective" on the matter, Caughlan explains. Perhaps, perhaps. . . .

THAT SWITCH by Dixon Arnett and Assemblyman Carl Britschgi for Richard Dolwig's senate seat came so fast Arnett's campaign workers swear they don't know what happened.

The rumbles of Dolwig's stepping aisde are still being felt. A Ryan spokesman said the Assemblyman can't help "but give the new developments a closer look," apparenty meaning Ryan may go against Arlen Gregorio in the primary for the 12th Senatorial seat.

But Ryan would have to ante up a lot of chips—namely his assembly post, which is also up for contention in November. Veddy interesting!

IT'S NO SECRET—Daly City's political race is shaping up. Veteran councilman Frank Pacelli is strongly backing former City planner Dino Tonelli and the "old pro," Edward Dennis, is plugging for realtor Louis "Lou" Papan. The local sunshine has brought candidate posters into full bloom everywhere, it seems.

NICE TO KNOW the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce said it will not become involved in the upcoming political elections, no matter what. Also of note: The Chamber re-elected Jim Faverman as its president. Congrats, and all that.

AND A PAT ON THE BACK to the San Mateo Supervisors for standing fast on that gravel hauling permit down Brisbane way. Nice to know they decided to go along with what they earlier promised to do. Kinda restores this citizen's faith in politicians.

Help Environment, Fight Pollution — Plant, Care For Tree Arbor Day

We hear a lot about deteriorating environment and air pollution, and South San Francisco Landscape Specialist John Hoffman says you can improve the environment and combat air pollution by planting trees.

Trees purify and oxygenate the air, they are nature's air conditioners, he explains.

Trees also beautify thecity and control erosion on the hillsides.

An appropriate time for planting trees is on Arbor Day, March 7, or during Conservation Week, March 7 to 14, when the South San Francisco Park Department again will sponsor tree planting.

Robert L. Maxey, Superintendent of Recreation and Parks, is making available to the public 7,000 seedling Monterey Pine trees to be given away at the Park Department Nursery at Orange Avenue Memorial Park on Arbor Day, March 7, from 9 a.m. to noon.

These pine trees and some other plant material are to be given for planting for erosion control. Any resident of South San Francisco who has property that is subject to erosion is eligible to receive these trees.

Last year, 7,000 seedling pines were given to residents for erosion control. Many of these trees were planted by Boy Scouts on hillsides through the City.

Twleve City schools also planted trees donated by the Park Department in observance of Arbor Day.

In Pacifica, Mayor Nick Gust has proclaimed March 7 as Arbor Day there and the Park, Beach and Recreation Commission also urges residents to participate in the theme, "Plant a Tree for You and Me."

This will be the first annual Arbor Day program for Pacfica. The Park, Beach and Recreation Department recommends that tree plantings take place near close proximity to an available water source, so they may be properly cared for during the year.

"It is not only important that we plant trees, but also that we care for them," Gust explains.

"Only through a concerned community, involving individual effort, may we add further to the beauty of Scenic Pacifica," he adds.

Reducing The Burden

Ronald Reagan has promised tax reform. In his 1966 campaign, he led a taxpayer's revolt. He has since worked long and hard in devising a means of reducing the burden on the home owner. He proposes a tax reform package which will probably take final form in bills to be presented to the Legislature in the near future.

His proposals weren't easy to put together. Through cutting, squeezing and trimming, he has been able to hold down the rate of increase of the total state budget, but not its absolute amount. More money has been needed each year, and the coming fiscal year is no different.

So property tax savings had to be provided by getting the money from somewhere else. This led the Governor to propose increases in the sales tax and the higher brackets of income tax as the main sources of extra funds. He also included withholding as a means of assuring even cash flow.

For some months, the Governor had programmed his proposals with President Pro Tem Howard Way and Speaker Robert Monagan. While leadership could by no means guarantee passage, a general aura of cooperation held promise for the Governor's proposals.

Now, with the recent change in senatorial leadership, tax reform will have heavier going. Several reasons support this conclusion:

1. Way was elected by a coalition of 13 Republicans and eight Democrats, Schrade in caucus by 13 Democrats and eight Republicans. Democrats are hardly enthusiastic about tax reform, and difference in balance could be important.

Schrade and the Republicans who voted for him claim to support the Governor. Whether the rhetoric of general approval can be applied in practice to something as technical as tax reform remains to be seen. Also, Schrade will have to be very careful indeed to avoid having his own leadership group move out from under him on this issue.

2. Some key people have assumed positions that make support of the Governor's program difficult. For example, it is thought that Senator Stiern, who stays on as Chairman of the powerful Revenue and Taxation Committee, opposes any increase in sales tax. Schrade himself has previously expressed strong reservations about withholding. The reduction of oil depletion allowances, also suggested by the Governor, presents possible difficulty. If a major part of the package fails (such as an increase in sales tax), the entire concept of reform would probably be shelved for this session.

3. The turmoil in the Senate has already interfered with usual legislative business. The Banana Republic atmosphere, and continuing preoccupation of Senators with the game of 21 is no boon to affirmative legislation.

4. Schrade's skills have, by his own admission, been defensive in nature. Whether he can suddenly develop the ability to lead an innovative program is subject to question, his return to the seniority system is not reassuring. Senior members of any legislative body tend to adhere to the old and fear the new.

5. Up to now, Senator Schrade has not presented the image or actuality of active and vital leadership.

So, tax reform is the thing to watch in Sacramento. Right now, the public supports the general outline of the Governor's program. Each senator and assemblyman must carefully glance back at his district to be certain he is not the one held publicly responsible for defeat of something the people want. The Governor may, in the tradition of FDR, "go to the people" in order to encourage legislative support.

Despite the leadership change, prospects for tax reform are fair. But the situation in the State Senate is cloudy and will remain an enigma cutting across all issues for some time to come.

AS I SEE IT!

'Mrs Cardlick' And Her Bulging Purse

'You Wouldn't Believe The Bargains...'

By BOB PETERSON
Post-Times Writer

San Bruno merchants can't see a cardroom nestled into the main stream of the business section as being beneficial to other merchants, the city, and above all, the purchasing public.

But, I can see it all now.

Prim Mrs. Cardlick walks into the establishment. Her purse is bulging. She's been shopping for bargains, but as yet has found none to her liking.

"What's this?" she wonders, observing a room full of people playing cards. "Hmm," she murmurs, "Some sort of card party." She tries to remember what organization has advertised recently this type of fund raising promotion.

Being the bridge, bingo and sundry other game player she is, she spies an empty seat and sits down.

"How many chips, lady?"

Mrs. Cardlick's quizzical look necessitates a full explanation of the value of the chips. She nods, exchanges money for chips and finds herself deep into a game she knows nothing about.

Ah, but her playing companions understand. At least the smiles that radiate from four previously somber faces would indicate they desire her company.

MR. TAKEM, sitting to the left of Mrs. Cardlick, informs her the game is called draw poker. And Mrs. Winner, sitting on Mr. Takem's left, says there's really nothing to the game. You just deal out five cards. If you like them, keep them. If not, exchange two or three for new ones.

The two other table companions nod in unison. Mr. Loss sits with several packages at his side Mr. Gains keeps a sharp eye on one large package by his chair.

Feeling more at ease, Mrs. Cardlick asks Mrs. Winner if she plays bridge. "Rarely," came the reply. "I find that I spend most of my time shopping." She held up a small package and winked.

"Well, we better get the game going," said Mr. Takem. "I have to buy some groceries pretty soon."

As the cards are dealt, Mrs. Cardlick is receiving advice from all four, who can't seem to inform her fast enough of the rules.

"Now a royal flush, that's the best hand you can have. It's one where you hold the ace to the ten of the same suit," said Mr. Takem.

"Then there's a full house. Now that's where you have, for example, three sevens and two fives," added Mrs. Winner.

"But four of a kind will beat that, like even four deuces, that's two's," explained Mr. Loss.

"A flush is good, too," offered Mr. Gains. "That's any five cards of the same suit."

MRS. CARDLICK was enjoying the game. But she noticed that she wasn't winning too much. As a matter of fact, her "bulging" purse was getting flatter with each hand.

She couldn't remember whether she had asked what charity this function was benefiting, but knew it would be toward a good cause.

Meanwhile, her companions kept smiling. They also talked some about how glad they were to see this "new business" on San Mateo Avenue.

Then it happened.

Mrs. Cardlick picked up her cards, one-by-one. An ace. Then a ten, a queen, king and the last one — a jack. "Oh," she said to herself. "They're all spades, too."

But if her elation was obvious, it went unnoticed by her table group.

Mr. Takem fondled his full house, three aces and a pair of kings. Mrs. Winner was overjoyed with her four nines. Mr. Loss was quite happy with his heart flush and Mr. Gains wasn't about to drop out with his four, five, six, seven and eight of clubs.

As the hand progressed, the raises came fast and heavy. Soon all chips were gone, and any extra money those at the table possessed had gone with it.

Except for Mrs. Cardlick. She had one $20 bill left, and threw it into the pot.

Now that wiped out Mr Takem. His grocery money was gone. But Mrs. Winner still had her small package. She opened it, and the kindly Mrs. Cardlick let her lady friend call with a diamond broach.

Mr. Loss put up the shoes he had just bought for his six children. And Mr. Gains' large package soon revealed a lady's fur coat.

When Mrs. Cardlick bent her wrists to show her hand, no one spoke. Then all talked at once.

"What am I going to tell the wife about no groceries . . . How about six pair of shoes for the kids . . . a $100 broach, a $100 broach . . . gone, my wife's coat, gone . .

Mrs. Cardlick gathered her new-found fortune and walked out the door to meet her husband.

"Dear, you wouldn't believe the bargains they have in that newly opened store."

'American Cooking'

HOW SERIOUS is the population explosion in the United States? How will it effect the American peopyle?

What can be done about it?

The air is full of hot words spoken in answer to these questions.

Dr. Lee DuBridge, chief scientific advisor to President Nixon, is so certain that population must be controlled he has suggested that American families be restricted to two children.

His observations are not a far step from those of a group that has proposed that the tax laws be altered to penalize families with more than two children.

Former President Johnson is so concerned about the population growth he has warned that "it presents the greatest challenge to mankind's survival, except nuclear war." His concern is shared by both former Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman and William H. Draper, chairman of the Population Crisis Committee.

FREEMAN HAS WRITTEN that the United States cannot compensate for the growing gap between food production and pyopyulation increase.

Draper voices his concern with a warning that increasing population can lead to situations as grave as those in Central Africa, where 50 per cent of the babies born die from lack of protein, and those in the Far East, where half the world's people try to subsist on a quarter of the world's food supply.

On the other hand there are many writers and speakers who do not share the alarm of the above thinkers. Among them is C. Booth Wallentine, Information Director of the Iowa Farm Bureau, Federal.

He argues that that there will be no need for population control if scientists put their genius to work on food production, pollution control and city planning. He points to the fact that 1969 was a record-breaking year of food production to show that American famers have shown no indication of having reached the apex of food production.

Wallentine gives words to a familiar argument when he writes, "A nation that has known more freedom than any other in modern history can not deny the fundamental right to choose how many children rests with the parents, not with the government or with some society or committee . . . The size of one man's family has always been a matter for parents to decide within the sanctuary of their own home."

SURELY OVER POPULATION is an issue to command the attention of the American people. To this end I list the following books for reading and studying.

Mrs. Dorothy Blasquez Honored By Oceana P-TA

Mrs. Dorothy Blasquez, president of the Oceana High P-TA, recently received the Honorary Service Award for her years of service to the P-TA and the community.

The award was made by last year's recepient, Robert Blevins, teacher at Oceana.

Mrs. Blasquez's work with the P-TA began when her oldest son, Steve, began kindergarten at Del Ray Woods School in Monterey. There she served as vice president and program chairman. In 1957 she was program chairman for Monterey Peninsula Council of P-TA.

Her activities during that time also included serving as church historian and teaching Sunday School at the Church of the Oaks in Del Ray Oaks. She was also chairman of the American Red Cross in that area.

Having moved to Avalon Park in South San Francisco in 1958, Mrs. Blasquez continued to be active in P-TA and community work. During the five years of residence there, she served as hospitality chairman, publicity chairman, and was a member of the program committee in Avalon School P-TA.

Her busy schedule also included serving as a Cub Scout Den Mother for two years, and then Den Mother co-ordinator.

In 1965 the family moved to Pacifica, and Mrs. Blasquez found herself active in the Sharp Park P-TA. She was Newsette chairman, and held the offices of treasurer, secretary, first vice president, program chairman, and president. At Sharp Park she was a room mother for five years. She also was a Little League Mother.

She attended the two-week Parent Education Workshop at UC Berkeley in 1965 on a P-TA scholarship.

She is now serving her second year as president of the Oceana P-TA, having previously held the office of recording secretary.

She has worked for almost every fund raising organization since living in Sharp Park, including Heart Fund, Cancer Society. Red Cross, Pacifica Boys' Club, and UNICEF. She has driven patients to the hospital for the American Cancer Society.

Since becoming a member of the Sigma Phi Sorority in 1955, she has held practically every office and chairmanship in that organization. She has served as president of the present chapter, Xi Lambda Phi, and Pacifica City Council of Beta Sigma Phi. She helped organize the Nu Phi Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi for young ladies 17 to 22, and was their first advisor.

She was the recepient of Xi Lambda Phi's "Girl of the Year," award in 1965 and 1966.

Her husband, Santos, has also served in the community as cubmaster, scoutmaster, and little league coach. He is vice president of Schumann Products Company, industrial hardware sales in South San Francisco.

The Blasquez' son Steve graduated from Oceana last year and is now attending Heald's Engineering College, San Francisco. Richard is a junior at Oceana, and Toby is in the seventh grade at Sharp Park School.

2 Seniors Tour Stanford Unit

Terri Dizon and Sandy Lopez, two Seniors from Westmoor were guests of the San Mateo County Heart Association along with 20 other high school students recently in a guided tour of the Stanford Research Facilities.

The Heart Association sponsors this tour every year in an effort to interest young students in a science career through college study. Terri and Sandy were shown researchers in action in the Cardiovascular, Renal, Hematology, and Dermatology laboratories.

The two Westmoor Seniors were chosen from Carl Kaufeldt's fifth period Physiology class.

Terri, who is presently Rally Commissioner at Westmoor, hopes to attend San Francisco State and major possibly in sociology, while Sandy plans to attend Skyline next year and someday become a pediatrician.

With about two weeks of the spring 1970 semester gone, Westmoor High School's faculty has found, rather pleasantly, that all their hard work has not gone to waste, as approximately one-quarter of Westmoor's student body has achieved honor-roll status this past fall semester.

Twenty-three Westmoorites took the all "A" category. Among these were Bud Arnott, Gary Boyd, Shelane Chow, Debra Columbana, Mitchell Fox, Richard Giusti, Jeffrey Harris, Carole Jeppson Cathy Kaplan, and Darrell Kettner. Janie Layton, Susan Leventhal, Denise Martinez, Jim Musslewhite, Jean Ratto, Rosseanne Regal, Laura Rippon, Rebecca Rozman, David Sausjord, Ingrid Sausjord, Charles Traversy, Jeffrey Whol, and Steven Wohl also made the 4.0 list for the fall semester.

Just missing the all "A" category by one grade are 47 students. These include Robert Alden, Leslie Anderson, Paul Anderson, Laurdes Balagot, Wendy Baltor, Cheri Beals, Lauren Behlow Paul Benson, Laura Biagnini, Eric Bogatin, Cheryl Borders, Lois Buada, Donna Chin, Ceryl Cobb, and Georgie Fraser. South City Setting For A Wedding

All Souls Catholic Church in South San Francisco was the setting at noon today for the wedding of Joanne Sassmann and Rich Lechleitner. The Rev. Thomas Burns officiated.

The newlyweds will live in Long Beach where the bridegroom is a student at the state college.

Joanne is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sassmann of South San Francisco who hosted the reception after the ceremony at the South San Francisco Elks Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. William Lechleitner of South San Francisco are the grandparents of the benedict.

A Valentine theme was chosen for the bridal decorations.

For her wedding, Joanne chose an ivory satin and lace gown with a matching train. Her headpiece was made of the same lace, and she carried red roses with red streamers. After the reception she changed into a white coat with a coral brimmed hat and accessories for traveling.

Shocking pink crepe tunics over light pink pants were chosen by the attendants who included June Baskin and Shirley Ricci, sister of the bride, as honor attendants. The bridesmaids were Judie Skinner, Chris Genovesi and Olivia Scholler.

Their bouquets were composed of shocking pink roses tied with light pink streamers.

Mrs. Sassmann witnessed her daughter's wedding in an ice blue knit dress, and Rich's grandmother chose a lime green linen dress with a lace overdress. Both women pinned on orchids.

Bob Price acted as best man for Rich, and the ushering contingent included Rik Cornell, Gregg Johnson, Mike Cottonaro and Dennis Lyons. Donald Ricci and Ray Spina Jr. were the ring bearers.

MRS. PEARL HASTINGS, president of the Welfare Rights Organization, reports that the group is on the lookout for volunteers who would help provide needed transportation and child care for mothers on welfare.

Anyone interested in helping these women reorganize and get back on their feet should call at 992-9911.

"We are looking for a 'helpout' not a handout," Mrs. Hastings stressed. "We are trying to stress the dignity and self-esteem of the invididual, and to accomplish this every member of our group tries to help the others in the WRO.

TERRA NOVA HIGH TOPICS

By Anne Dryden

Sixteen members of Terra Nova's International Relations Club spent a fun-filled, three-day weekend in Berkeley and learned more about the world situation in the process. They participated in Berkeley's 18th Annual High School United Nations, in which high school delegations represented member nations and voted on resolutions based on actual world problems.

The Terra Nova delegation represented The People's Republic of South Yemen, a small, newly established Arab country.

More than 1400 students from all over California participated in the General Assemblies, which were closely modeled after the U.N. in New York.

All members were present at the First Plenary Session of the General Assembly. Keynote speaker was Ambassador Mohammed H. ElFarra, a representative of the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan to the United Nations.

He presented the Arab side to the Middle East crisis and was very well received by the many countries of the Arab Bloc. The Israelis and their allies took offense to the one-sided presentation and registered complaints to the President of the General Assembly, who reminded them that the purpose of having the keynote speaker was to acquaint the delegates with an actual delegate to the U.N., not to influence them politically.

Caucas meeting of the Communist, Arab, Afro-Asian Blocs and NATO followed the General Assembly, but as Terra Nova's country had no affiliations with these alliances, the South Yemenese delegation returned to the luxurious Marina Lodge.

Early next morning the delegations broke up into five committees to discuss and select resolutions to be presented to the General Assembly the next day. Committees and their TN members were: Political Security, Dave Limcaco, delegate, Sylvia Garcia, Kathy Goodman, observors; Special Study, Andy Dowsett, delegate, Cathy Sharp, Sandy Bryant, observors; Special Political, Debbie Sylvester, delegate, Vickie Mosely, Laura Douglass, observors; International Commerce, Maggie Montenegro, delegate, Rick Mendez, Mae Kennison, Doug McCoy, observors; Social, Humanitarian, Cultural, Anne Dryden, delegate Patti Howard, Rockie Montenegro.

Andy Dowsett's amendment to a resolution in the Special Study Committee was accepted by the committee, but it didn't reach the General Assembly for lack of time.

A dessert - reception was presented that evening, followed by a dance, with music by ALBATROSS.

All countries participated in the Second Plenary Session of the General Assembly Saturday morning. Real diplomatic relations began to take place as delegates carried on correspondence (with the use of pages) on the General Assembly Floor, urging countries to vote for or against resolutions or arranging for speaking time. Dowsett spoke briefly to correct an error in the reading of a resolution and amendment. Other TN delegates volunteered to speak, but were not selected by the President.

Although the assemblies and committee meetings were noisy and sometimes unruly, they provided a few tense moments when it came time to vote. Resolutions before the General Assembly included the admittance of Red China to the U.N., which failed; and the protection of South African political prisoners, which passed.

The South Yemenese delegation returned to Pacifica Saturday night weary from their escapades in Berkeley, but filled with newly-acquired understanding of world situations.

Although the role-playing was fun, it seemed strange to be an enemy of the United States. Feelings of resentment and hostility were present among many participating nations, who sent threatening notes and spoke harshly of their enemies.

The trip to Berkeley was a climax to months of planning and fund-raising. By selling Chirardelli Chocolate bars and presenting a musical extravaganza in January, the club members earned almost $300.

International Relations Club advisors James Soden and Terry Norton chaperoned the Berkeley excursion.

Thirteen seniors at Terra Nova High School have been honored in the annual Bank of America Achievement Awards program, Principal Thanos Panagoulies announced today.

Four students were awarded plaques for their outstanding achievements in a general field of study, and will have the opportunity of competing with top students from other schools for cash awards ranging up to $1,000.

June Hamilton Is Married To John Ortega

St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in San Bruno was the setting for the recent marriage of June Hamilton and John Ortega.

The Rev. John Powell read the vows, and the couple met their guests in the reception hall of the church. They are now at home in Burlingame.

June, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hamilton of South San Francisco, walked to the altar with her father. She was attended by Mrs. Craig Wood as her matron of honor.

Walter M. Reeves served as best man for John, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ortega of Riverside.

The new matron was graduated from El Camino High School and attended the University of California at Davis. Her husband, the brother of Thomas R. Ortega, is a graduate of Ramona High School in Riverside.

NELL NORTON

(Sugar 'n Spice)

Good morning, good cooks.

I find the best way to gather recipes is to cultivate friends who are good cooks. Then when I say, "What's new?"; and they finish telling me about their wonderful husbands, charming and smart children and the terrible bridge hands they've been getting lately, they usually get around to telling me about some delish dish they've served recently.

Lest you should think that I'm a rank opportunist who cultivates friends only for new recipes, many of my friends don't like to cook and never, never talk about recipes.

A friend who comes under the good cook heading is Mrs. Betty Feeley, who lives in Westlake and recently gave me this recipe for serving rice. It's delicious and different.

FEELEY'S RICE

½ cube butter or margarine
¼ medium onion, chopped fine
1 cup rice, uncooked
½ teaspoon salt
1 can chicken broth, about 14 ounces
⅓ cup white wine
¼ cup Parmesan cheese

In a heavy saucepan with a tight cover, melt the half cube margarine, add the chopped onion and cook until transparent. Add the cup rice, half teaspoon salt, can of chicken broth, one-third cup white wine. Cover and steam about 20 minutes or until rice is tender. Stir in the fourth cup Parmesan cheese. Serves 4 to 6, depending on appetites.

THIS NEXT RECIPE is rather a mystery. Someone sent it to me and I carefully filed it to test, but failed to note who sent it. Soooo, if you recognize it as the one you sent, my thanks, it's very tasty.

Before we start the recipe a note. My cookbook gives this description of Bouquet Garni: "Tie a sprig of thyme, parsley and celery with piece of carrot and sprig of basil, rosemary or savory. Add to stew or soup at start of cooking; remove to serve. In this recipe the Bouquet Garni calls for a stalk of celery, few sprigs of fresh parsley and a bay leaf tied together.

FRENCH VEAL STEW

2 pounds veal shoulder (stew)
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 Tablespoons oil
2 cups hot water
½ cup sherry
1 large whole onion, studded with 2 whole cloves
2 carrots, peeled and cut in 1-inch pieces
2 cloves garlic crushed
Bouquet Garni
½ teaspoon each, basil, thyme and nutmeg
3 egg yolks, beaten
2 Tablespoons lemon juice
1 Tablespoon cream

Combine the fourth-cup flour, teaspoon salt and quarter teaspoon pepper in a paper bag. Shake the veal in bag until coated with flour. Brown the veal in the three tablespoons hot oil. Add 2 cups hot water, half cup sherry, the onion, the two carrots and the Bouquet Garni. Stir in the half teaspoon each basil, thyme and nutmeg. Cover and simmer for one hour.

Discard the Bouquet Garni and the onion. Combnie the three beaten egg yolks, two tablespoons lemon juice and one tablespoon cream. Add some of the hot liquid from the stew to warm, then blend into stew. Heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Serve over rice. Serves 5 to 6.

In case you are wondering what to do with the three remaining egg whites, why not make some chocolate chip meringues?

CHOCOLATE CHIP MERINGUES

3 egg whites
⅛ teaspoon cream of tarter
Dash of salt
¾ cup sugar plus 2 Tablespoons
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 6-ounce package semi-sweet chocolate bits.
(Bake in 250-degree oven 1 hour)

Beat the three egg whites until foamy, add the eighth teaspoon cream of tarter and dash of salt. Continue beating until stiff, but not dry. Add the three-fourths cup plus two tablespoons sugar to the beaten egg whites a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Lastly fold in the half teaspoon vanilla and the package chocolate bits.

Drop by teaspoonfuls onto heavy brown paper. Bake in a slow oven, 250 degrees for one hour. Remove at once from paper.

Just recently I made a chocolate cake and frosted it with a frosting that I thought everyone would like. Not only did they like it, they loved it. So I feel I should share it with you good cooks.

ROCKY ROAD FROSTING

3 Cups confectioners sugar
7 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
dash of salt
3 squares baking chocolate
3 Tablespoons butter
12 marshmallows, cut-up
¼ cup chopped nuts

Blend in a mixing bowl the three cups confectioners sugar, seven tablespoons milk, teaspoon vanilla and dash of salt. Melt the three squares baking chocolate and 3 tablespoons butter over hot water and add to the sugar mixture. Fold in the twelve marshmallows, cut-up and the fourth cup nuts. Frosts a two layer cake nicely.

Skyline To Sponsor Series On Fault

If the local seismograph continues with its steady needle recording, and there are no major upheavels, Skyline College's Community Education Program will be presenting a four-part study of "Our Restless Neighbor — The San Andreas Fault," under the direction of Marshall Reed.

Reed a member of the Geology Department, Foothill College, will team with Robert Brown, U.S. Geological Survey, and N. Timothy Hall, Geology Department, Foothill College, in the analysis of the Bay Area's most active fault.

There will be three Thursday evening 7:30 sessions. March 5, 12, 19, in Building 1, Room 131, on the Skyline College campus and an all-day Saturday March 21, tour of the fault area.

The program will include the following presentations:

March 5— Marshall Reed — "Here Is an Earthquake" — films of the 1964 Alaska and Japanese earthquakes followed by analysis of causes and measuring earthquakes.

March 12 — Robert Brown — "Bay Area Geology" — Historical behavior of San Andreas, Hayward, Calaveras faults, plus study of possible areas of next movement and earthquake predictions and control.

March 19 — N. Timothy Hall — "Reducing Earthquake Hazards" — Problems of urban geology; buildings and individuals and earthquakes.

March 21 (8 a.m.) — "Fault Finding Tour" — All-day bus trip to oversee man's works and active earthquake faults from San Bruno to Hollister.

Prices for the entire program is $5; three lectures only $3; single lectures $1.50. For further information regarding this series contact Skyline College — 3300 College Drive, San Bruno, in care of Community Education Program.

Exchange Club Picks 2 Students

Laura Deghetaldi and Sal Espinoza have been chosen by the Daly City Exchange Club to be Serramonte's boy and girl of the month. Laura was chosen because of her contribution to school spirit. Sal was chosen because he is one of Serramonte's most outstanding athletes.

This is the third time a boy and girl of the month have been chosen from Serramonte by the Exchange Club.

Serramonte is the only school involved in this program.

There will soon be some gathering where Laura and Sal get their awards.

The Rennaissance Fair will be at Serramonte March 24-25, with about 30 booth sincluded.

The purpose of the Renaissance Fair, according to Miss Karen Quick, is to get students interested in a different form of education where they will do research on the Renaissance period and decide how they will best adapt themselves.

Papa Luigi's Lo-Cal Spaghetti In San Mateo

Ever heard of losing weight by eating spaghetti three times a day? Of course not. That is, not until now. After extensive research and development, Papa Luigi introduces lo-cal spaghetti to the American public. This secret blend of ingredients will remain unique to authorized Papa Luigi Spaghetti Dens and will not be available through stores or restaurants. Papa Luigi has opened a brand new Papa Luigi Spaghetti Den at 109 West Twenty-fifth Avenue (off El Camino Real) in San Mateo, where you may try his reasonably priced take-home bucket of lo-cal spaghetti, which will feed a family of 10, for only $3.98. Even with a generous portion of delicious Italian-style sauce, Papa Luigi spaghetti is only 230 calories per serving. During Papa Luigi's grand opening week, clip the coupon out of the ad that appeared in The Times February 26 and get one-half off any purchase . . . For your most favorite aria, drop into the Bocce Ball in North Beach and listen to professionals and amateurs alike. This unusual night club is the only one in San Francisco that offers such singing to the public.

SOMETHING NEW — Nightly dancing to live entertainment of the Rising Sons begins Thursday, March 5, in the Don Quixote cocktail lounge at the magnificent new Costa Brava restaurant, located just off the Bayshore Freeway in San Francisco. "Quadrasonic Stereo," a fantastic four-channel high fidelity sound system never before heard in a restaurant, has been installed for dancing. Entertainment begins at 9 p.m. nightly.

Lew Lehr feels like he's in the theater ticket business. Many out-of-San Francisco patrons of his Marina District restaurant phone in a dinner reservation and add: "Oh, by the way, Lew, would you mind picking up "Hello, Dolly" tickets for me at the Cinema 21 Theater just around the corner?" . . . Although Vince Licata's Italian and Sea Food restaurant doesn't have the sound of Ireland, you can be sure every Irishman in town shows up on Thursday for Vince's corned beef and cabbage special, served with boiled potato and hot French bread . . . Ed's Smoke Shop in San Carlos is the starting point for a budget trip to the Sparks Nugget, via the Golden Tours. Check departure time and bonus refunds. You'll be $ $ $ $ surprised . . . A beautiful sight to behold and enjoy is the Plank Steak at the chic Shirt Tail restaurant in Palo Alto. It's served on a slab of wood, and topped with onions. Romantic Old World dinner music wafts into the dining room from Peter Nowak, who presides at the piano in the sunken cocktail lounge . . .

Danny Shannon, bass guitarist in the Nadine Jansen Trio, now appearing Tuesday through Saturday in the Executive House Thunderbolt Hotel, Millbrae, is an accomplished musician in his own right. Shannon played with the Grand Old Oprey, the Parker Lund Band with vocalist Pat Yankee, and has cut many records, plus movie scund tracks. . . . No Parking problems at Scotty Campbell's, what with "yards of it" available to guests on both sides of the Redwood City restaurant. A business boom is taking place at this handsome dining house, which is owned and operated by Mary Lou Francis, and Theresa and Bud Urban. Specializing in steaks and prime rib, appetites are appeased by the efforts of head chef 'Salvador Sandavol and his brother, Abel . . . At Phil Lehr's Steakery, downtown San Francisco, tender broiled steak and lobster tail are combined on one gourmet dinner. Lehr calls his creation "Half & Half" and points out that each superb entree complements and enhances the flavor of the other. . . . Don't overlook the second anniversary special now being featured at Sal Campagna's House of Troy in San Carlos. A "Top Sirloin Dinner For Two" is a $7.50 Sunday through Thursday special. Regular menu of dinner favorites is also available.

Health Expert Jack Lalanne Is Seafood Fan

Jack Lalanne, who is building his physical culture studios all over the country, dined at Bertolucci's the other p.m. The muscular health man resisted all temptation for cannelloni, scaloppini and fettuccini. He stuck with fish (sole) and chicken broth with light noodles. If you're on a diet, he recommends that you try the same at the South San Francisco restaurant. Lovely hostess Lola Bogdan was a very attentive audience as Jack explained his health program . . . Master chef Wilfried Blarer and his wife, Marion, owners of The Matterhorn Swiss restaurant on Burlingame's Broadway, have acquired a new household pet for their young son — a Siamese cat. Like all Siamese cats, this domestic mammal is cross-eyed, but "walks a straight line" . . . Luz Garcia's Sinaloa Mexican cantina is one of North Beach's liveliest night clubs with an all-Mexican revue that represents the finest talent south-of-the-border. Luz also takes great pride in her Merican dinners. A favorite that is asked for again and again is the Combination Plate, which is a tremendous offering of Enchilada, Taco, Chile Relleno, Rice and Beans.

Something new is happening at the South San Francisco Holiday Inn on Wednesday afternoons: during the luncheon hours, lovely models from Anita's Sample Gallery of Burlingame model the latest in fashions in the dining room, lounge and coffee shop. In the evening, suave Robert Surabian can be heard in the lounge playing his special piano renditions of your favorite tunes. . . . Disappointed faces on Fridays can probably be traced to persons who arrive at Stickney's restaurants too late for their stupendous Broiled Crab Meat Sandwich Luscious broiled crabmeat is served on hot French bread, topped with melted cheddar cheese. Smart ones place orders early in the a.m. . . . The Shamrock Inn, a "rest oasis" in South Lake Tahoe, is located on the fringe of all the action. Furnish your own transportation and receive $10 per person bonus refund, which figures out to $6 cash, $1 food, $3 beverage. Check their advertisement for other bonus bargains . . . Enrico Romano, owner of Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, wants Bright Lights' readers to be aware of the fact that in addition to pizzas, he also specializes in Italian dinners that come complete with everything you could ask for.

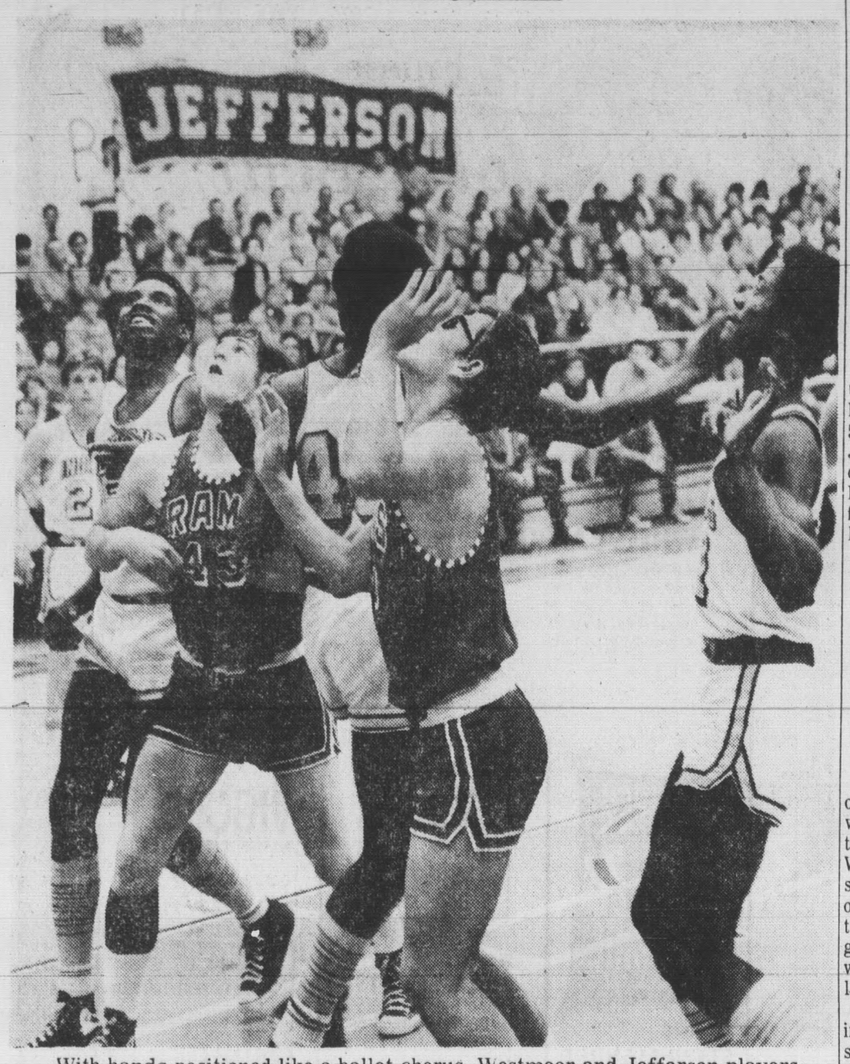
THE LARGEST AND FINEST GIFT SELECTION IN THE BAY AREA



With hands positioned like a ballet chorus, Westmoor and Jefferson players wait expectantly for rebound in Thursday's play-off game at Skyline College. Jeff scored 86-81 victory to qualify for CCS Regional game against Hillsdale Saturday night. (Post Photo)

THEY BEAT RAMS, BUT:

Jeff Cagers Lose Regional Contest

By JERRY LITTRELL
Post Sports Writer

The Knights of Hillsdale High upended the North Peninsula League co-champion, Jefferson, 58-50, Saturday night at USF. In Jefferson, the Knights faced one of the tougher centers around in Pinky Smith, 6-5 senior, but will face the epitome of pivotdom in Restani.

"No doubt about it," Knight Coach Homer Zugelder explained, "Restani will be the toughest player we have faced all year. He is taller than Smith, and he can really score well from the outside. It's hard to come up with a defense for Riordan as they do many things extremely well."

Hillsdale did a few things well on its own against the Indians, who won a post-season play-off to gain entry to these semis. With four seniors in the lineup, surprisingly it was the cool play of the lone junior, Ed Kertel, that enabled Hillsdale to keep a game-long lead when the losers were pressed hard for the win late in the game.

In an effort to get more scoring and rebounding into the starting lineup against Hillsdale, Jefferson Coach Mic Kelly started 6-8 center Earl Wilson in place of 5-8 Tony Moss. That 12-inch move, however, cost the Indians dearly in the ballhandling department and may have aided Hillsdale to its first half margins.

Kertel made a sport out of plucking the ball away from the slower Jeff Juards on numerous occasions in the early going and helped cause 11 Indian turnovers by halftime. In that span, the Knights, with forward Mike Rutherglen driving baseline, pulled away to as much as a nine-point lead.

Rutherglen, who had 13 of his 20 by halftime, also got in foul trouble by intermission, picking up his third with three minutes left in the half. But, then, each team's best shooters were getting in personal troubles—Jeff forward Dale Conway had his third before intermission and Smith had his third shortly after the second half began.

Staying in the safety of the zone defense, Hillsdale was able to stay away from more serious problems as forward Brad Metheany and center Steve Ralston effectively nullified the talented Jeff front line while Kertel continued his ballhawking maneuvers.

"Ed did just a great job," exclaimed Zugelder. "He was tough in the clutch, handled the ball well against their press and ran our press very well. It was a great win for the MPL because they (Jeff) score so many points usually and have a fast-paced offense."

Kertel came through for the Knights just when they needed help the most. Jeff had closed the gap to 52-48 with 1:20 remaining as Hillsdale was missing free throws like crazy in the last three minutes. Four times Jefferson cleverly fouled Hillsdale players and only one time in four did the Knights convert the ensuing free throws. Then came Kertel's turn.

The 5-11 guard sank four free throws in the final 58 seconds to pull Hillsdale in front by eight once again and it meant the win.

Considering the talents of the opposition, Hillsdale's defense did a fine job stopping Smith, if one can say 19 points is being stopped, holding Wilson off the boards and clamping off much of the Jeff outside shooting except for Conway's 15 points.

Indians Dropped Rams In Playoff

Homer Zugelder sat quietly at one end of the Skyline College gymnasium Thursday alternately watching the janitors sweeping up the ankle-deep litter and glancing at the red numerals still lit on the scoreboard.

"Look at that, will you," Hillsdale's varsity basketball coach mused. "Eighty-six points on one side and eighty-one on the other That's a lot of scoring in any league."

His thoughts then turned to Saturday night's encounter with the offense-minded Jefferson High School Indians in the opening round of the Central Coast Section Region I play-offs at the University of San Francisco. Jeff, one of the three champions of the North Peninsula League earned the right to face the Knights, titleholders in the Mid-Peninsula League, with a squeaky 86-81 win over Westmoor's gallant Rams.

Two two-night, two-game post-season NPL playoff between the three champions ended on a frantic, scrambling note—the symbol of NPL play all season. Jefferson, which was able to sit out the opening night while Westmoor won a one-pointer over South City, came on strong at the start of the game, played even with the Rams in the middle two periods and held off a desperate effort in the closing minutes to take the CCS slot.

"The kids had something to prove in this game," Ram mentor Tony Giammona stated after the game. "They were getting a little tired of reading in the papers how the Jefferson coaching staff didn't think we were capable of being able to score with the Indians or hearing how the Jefferson staff stated that we weren't strong enough to be invited to a post-season tournament—invitational or otherwise.

"We may have lost the game but we didn't lose face," he added with more than a hint of pride. "Three games in a row and playing without Jim Lewis was quite a task but they never quit. They proved to everyone that they can score and stay with Jefferson or anyone. I'm proud of them."

Balanced scoring from Pinky Smith, Dale Conway and John Burrus led the way for Jeff in this one. Smith spurted to 24 points with his own soft-touch jumper and the 6-5 senior combined with sub Earl Wilson to completely dominate the rebounding, especially in the first half.

Both teams started slowly and went three minutes before the first bucket, a jumper by senior Paul Raynolds, tied Westmoor with Jeff at 3-3. The Indians then started controlling the backboards as Westmoor was getting just one shot and missing. Turnovers, which proved fatal last time for the Rams, helped Jeff to a 15-6 quarter advantage.

Then Burrus, who ended with 19, made two running-hook layins to open the second quarter, Smith added four quick points and the pace suddenly went wild. Westmoor, with Reynolds in foul trouble again last night, still came on strong in the middle minutes. Reynolds, having his finest game of his senior campaign, scored five straight points, guard Brad Quanstrom added two bombs and it was score-one, allow-one the rest of the way.

Jefferson, fresher-appearing then the much-used Ram five, kept the Rams at a 10-point spread all through the third period as Conway rainbowed his points.

Sportscripts

WE'VE PURPOSELY refrained from commenting on the two biggest stories in sports over the past few months because we haven't felt there was much we could add to the reams of copy which have already been devoted to the Curt Flood anti-trust suit and the Denny McLain shenanigans.

We still don't feel that we can add significantly to the philosophical, social and legal aspects of the cases, but there are a couple of questions we'd like to ask which wouldn't be rhetorical f someone could answer them for us — and we would like the answers:

1) How much money could McLain NOW make playing the organ?

2) If Flood can bring suit against organized baseball for enslaving him, why can't prize fighters do the same against managers and-or syndicates who sign them to long term contracts, take a good percentage of their money while sending them across all sorts of state lines to reap often large profits, and can then sell their contracts to other managers and-or syndicates, who can do the same thing to the fighter without his consent? . . . unless, of course, he wishes to quit fighting.

As a matter of fact, you can probably think of several other instances in other businesses where employees are subjected to roughly the same "treatment" as are professional baseball players and aren't brought to trial. If you can, we'd be interested in hearing from you. And if you can answer the above two questions, we'd appreciate it.

WE DID A COLUMN July 31, 1963 on San Mateo resident Marvin Ison, a baseball buff who had one of the better collections of baseball record books and other printed memorabilia we had ever seen. Ison had just gotten out of the hospital and was recuperating from a heart condition at home, and thankful for his collection, which helped wile away the long hours of immobility as he leafed through his books and reacquainted himself withh the myriad of facts they contained, many of which he had committed to memory.

We called Ison, "a rarity in this world — a baseball fan who knows what he's talking about."

In May of that year, he had picked the Dodgers to win the pennant, despite the fact that they had seemed to be collapsing at that point. By the time we wrote the column, they had recovered and were in fact on their way to a pennant. Ison had attributed it all to his interpretation of statistics and laws of chance (for instance, he had said the Giants wouldn't repeat their pennant because it was unlikely that Jack Sanford and Billy Pierce could again win 40 between them, and they didn't — they won only 19), and his collection.

A few weeks ago, except for the unwrapped Sporting News (the mail keeps coming) lying in cardboard boxes in the room which was set aside in the Ison apartment for the collection, Ison's collection stopped growing. He had finally succumbed to that faulty heart.

Reason we're showing such an uncommon interest in an enemy pitcher, aside from the fact that he's from the general area that we indirectly predicted his stardom in 1967. We say indirectly, because we didn't actually prognosticate possibly great things of Messersmith, but had the good sense to interview the person who did. That person was George Wolfman, Andy's coach at Cal.

At the time we talked to Wolfman, four of his recent pitching stars were either making it or seemed on the verge of making it in the Biggies.

They were lefty Rich Nye, who was having a big rookie year with the Cubs that season; Messersmith, who had the year before finished the season well with Seattle in the Coast League after signing his first pro contract; Bill Frost, a Giant number one draft pick who had looked good at Fresno the year before, and Larry Colton, who was toiling in the high minors at the time for, we believe, Philadelphia.

Wolfman discussed all four, particularly Nye, and their possibilities (Nye is still in the majors but has fallen on harder times, Frost has yet to make it, and Colton has bounced around between the majors and high minors between sips of coffee), but seemed especially intrigued with Messersmith.

He said that Messersmith had probably the best fast ball of any of the four, and called him a "gutty competitor." He at the time was rather upset with Messersmith, whom, he felt — perhaps selfishly — has made a terrible blunder in signing after his junior year.

Now Mrs. Ison, who admits she never knew much about baseball but who encouraged her husband's collection and used his birthdays and Christmas as an excuse to add to it whenever she could, is moving to a one-room apartment and wants to sell the collection in one lot.

If you're interested in purchasing an excellent collection in one lot, you may contact me at The Post, and I'll put you in contact with Mrs. Ison. If you're looking for bargain, forget it. Before he died Mr. Ison told her what it was worth, and she's sticking to that price

For a baseball buff, this is a great opportunity.

IF YOU BELIEVE those stories that circulate around winter's Hot Stove League, baseball's next pitching great, the next "untouchable," will be the Angels' Andy Messersmith, the ex-Cal star.

Last year Messersmith, with a weak club, had a 16-11 record, struck out 211, and had a 2.52 ERA, the latter of which was the fourth best in the American League. But while Messersmith's record was good overall, it was phenominal from June 3 on.

After he dropped his first five decisions, and was off to a generally miserable start, from June 3 until September 14 his record was 15-4 — still with a bad club — and he allowed the opposition an average of just 5.7 hits per game, which came out to an opposition .190 batting average.

Messersmith, in other words, was just about the best pitcher in the majors during that time period and in his first full year in the majors.

Messersmith had had a great sophomore season at Cal, but had come in with just a so-so junior year.

"The decision to sign after a bad season," said Wolfman, shaking his head, "cost him a lot of money." And although Wolfman didn't verbalize it, he was undoubtedly thinking of what it had cost Cal in league standings.

But, Wolfman had added, unhesitatingly, "He's good enough to make the Biggies and stick, and if he's good enough, he'll make every penny back that he missed in that bonus he could have signed, and then some."

Right about now, Messersmith has probably forgotten all about that big bonus that could have been. It looks as if he just won't need it.

LITTLE KNOWN FACTS OF BASKETBALL: One of basketball's little known facts is that its inventor, James Naismith, married the first lady basketball player, Maude Sherman. Now, that's what we call loving a game, the last full measure of devotion. Especially after we saw a picture of Maude.

New Orleans quarterback Billy Kilmer, late of the 49ers, was a two-time high school All American basketballer.

Bill Sharman was sitting on the Dodger bench in 1951 when Bobby Thompson hit that famous homer. Sharman was an outfielder in the Dodger farm system at the time and had been brought up to see what the big club was like, although he never got a chance to play. All of which was lucky for the Celtics. After he saw what happened to the Dodgers, Sharman probably figured he'd better find himself another sport. He was right.

Bowling Notes

Special to the Post

Another name in Daly City has popped up in top-notch bowling competition: Gary Moeller, a 25-year-old printer and newlywed, showed he is back in form busting pins by facing the top professionals and amateurs on the Pacific Coast and coming out with a second place check.

Bowling in San Francisco's richest kegling event — Washington's Birthday Tournament at Sports Center Bowl — Moeller averaged 219 for eight games the first day and the lead held up into the final day when Sacramento's Don Bickford came through to win.

Bickford is a former PBA tour star who has won three state all events crowns.

Moeller was the top average bowler in San Francisco two years ago but currently limits his pin cracking to Westlake Bowl and Brentwood Bowl for only two nights a week.

Team scoring was high at both Serra Bowl and Swanson's Westlake emporium. Heddills Advertisers in the 865 Scratch League rolled up a 1037 game with Bill Rice starting with nine strikes in a row for 274 and Dom Papia adding eight straight and a 266 game. At Westlake Bill Dutcher rolled a 246-613 while the Blasters rolled a sizzling 3026 team series in the Bank of America loop.

Top game of the week came from Ken Olsen, who strung 11 strikes in a row but left three pins for a 297 game in the Telco league.

For the gals at Westlake, it was Lois Valentine rolling up a 256 game and 562 series for BankAmericard.

Dave Marsili, a small fry in the junior program who averages 82 pins a game at Serra Bowl, hit the wood for a 123 game and picked up the tough 3-7-10 split.

Bowling 100 pins over their average with Serra's Mary Paul (558) and Louise Pozzi (520).

Ginere Third In Tournament

San Mateo Times printer John Giniere is $500 richer today, thanks to a little expertise on the lanes of the Sports Center Bowl last week.

Final tally of the Washington Birthday singles showed that Giniere ended up in third place in the Washington Day Singles tourney. He knocked down 1,721 pins in his eight-game block, with Don Bickford of Sacramento picking up the $1,000 first place money with 1,783 pins. Gary Moeller finished second with 1,750 pins.

Equality Comes To Sharp Park

Government can move fast to get things done when it wants to.

Two weeks ago, when San Mateo County officials met with Mayor Joseph L. Alioto and other San Francisco authorities to duscuss "mutual problems" one of the items brought up by Chairman Jean Fassler of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors involved reserved starting times at Sharp Park golf course.

She had with her letters from officials of Daly City, Pacifica and the Jefferson High School District complaining that San Mateo County residents were not being allowed to make reservations. The golf course, which adjoins Pacifica, is owned by San Francisco.

Mrs. Fassler reported to her board Feb. 24 that on the very day of the meeting last week John D. Crowley, acting general manager of public utilites in San Francisco, sent a letter to Joseph M. Caverly, general manager of the Parks and Recreation Commission there.

"Mayor Alioto agreed with Mrs. Fassler," Crowley wrote, "that reserved starting times should not be restricted to San Franciscans. It is requested that you take the necessary actions to implement this change."

The situation was corrected forthwith, Mrs. Fassler reported.

The board chairman also read a letter she received from Mayor Bernard J. Lycett of Daly City.

"If there is anything in this field of governmental affairs that pleases me most," Lycett wrote, "it is the handling of situations with alacrity. I do not recall anything being handled any faster

DC Gymnast Places Third

Terri ranked fifth in the uneven parallel bars competition and fourth in vaulting.

The team is sponsored by the Daly City Recreation, Parks and Maintenance Department as part of the gymnastic program for girls.

Beginning classes are available for young ladies seven years of age and older.

SSF Tennis Tournament Is Planned

The South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department is sponsoring the Industrial City Tennis Tournament during the week of March 21 to March 28.

The tourney will determine local South City champions in Men's and Women's Singles, Doubles, and Mixed Doubles; High School Boys and Girls Singles, Doubles and Mixed Doubles; and Boys and Girls 14 and under singles.

Most of the adult play will take place on Saturday, March 21 and Sunday, March 22. High School competition and under will play during the following Easter week vacation.

Matches will be played on the Orange Memorial Park Courts and, if necessary, evening games under the lights will be slated.

Entry deadline for the tournament is March 16. Local South San Francisco residents may enter their City Championships by contacting the SSF Recreation and Park Department.

Golf Lessons By The YWCA

The San Mateo County YWCA began its golf lessons for the spring on February 28 at Harding Park Golf Course Driving Range.

Under the direction of Ted Smith, two classes are scheduled: A class for boys and girls, 13 years and up, from 10 to 11 a.m., then a class for men and women from 11 a.m. to noon.

Clubs and balls are provided.

OLPH Wins K-C Cage Tournament

Our Lady of Perpetual Help won the Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, eleventh annual invitational basketball tournament on February 23 at the Daly City War Memorial Gymnasium.

The first pairings matched Our Lady of Perpetual Help against Our Lady of Mercy and Saint Thomas More against Holy Angels with OLPH and Saint Thomas More winners in the first two games.

In the semi-final game to decide third and fourth places, OLM defeated Holy Angels 55-34.

In the final game, sparked by Kenny Block's 15 points, OLPH defeated Saint Thomas More 37-28 for their second successive championship.

In an exhibition game Marian Council 3773 defeated U.S.F. Council 4394 54-42.

Sportsmen Clinch D.C. Cage Crown

The Sportsmen clinched the division championship in the Daly City Department of Recreation, Parks & Maintenance Adult 3 — Man Basketball League last week by defeating the Buzzards 40-11 while, at the same time, the Lucky 6 clinched their title in the Under 6 Foot Division by knocking off the Odd Squad.

In other action, the Pomona Casuals slipped past Daly City Yellow Cab Co., 40-34 to tie the Odd Squad for second place honors and possibly force a second place play-off.

NPL Finale

Colts Beat Terra Nova

Terra Nova's youth movement may stand the Tigers in good stead next year but it didn't help a bit in Wednesday's North Peninsula League finale.

Two El Camino seniors bested the junior Tiger lineup as the Colts won a fourth place finish, first in line behind the three league champions, with a 94-78 explosion over the Pacifica contingent. The win upped the Colts' record to 8-6 and dropped TN to a 4-10 mark.

Senior forward Pete Saco and senior guard Tom Buckley combined for 56 points as the Colts ran by the losers in a quick-ignition second half. Saco got 15 of his 29 points in the last quarter, the majority on cripple layins behind the leaky Tiger full-court press.

Layins were the order of the day for the Colts who shot 78 per cent from the floor in the second half after struggling to a 40-all tie after two periods. Saco began slipping behind the Tiger defenses and his teammates found him with perfect downcourt heaves for two-pointers.

The Tigers, meanwhile, had all sorts of problems getting inside but got creditable performances from the undergraduate starting five. Forward Bud Papadakis, center Jeff Wellemeyer and guard Bob Petty popped through 58 points in the run-and-shoot affair.

Capuchino '5' Is Victorious

Conistency of effort for the entirety of a basketball game is a most necessary ingredient in the quest for cage success.

Unfortunately, the Crestmoor Falcons were unable to sustain their efforts against the Capuchino Mustangs Feb. 24 as they fell prey to a fourth quarter Cap blitz and were defeated, 69-57, in a relatively unimportant MPL meeting.

Jeff Elementary Offices Named After M.L. King Jr.

By WILL E. THOMAS
Post City Editor

"101" became the Martin Luther King, Jr. Administrative Center last week.

"101" is the familiar designation, by citizen and educator alike for the Jefferson Elementary School District's administrative offices, located at 101 Lincoln Avenue.

The new designation of the offices for Supt. Frank Greenwood and his support deputies and their staffs came as a seemingly satisfactory compromise after indications the district's Board of Trustees intended to deny a request from the NAACP that two schools' names be altered.

One, Colma Intermediate, would have become the Martin Luther King, Jr., School. The other, Colma K-6, would have been designated the Robert Kennedy School, said NAACP representatives, Mrs. Madge Bradstreet and Mrs. Myrtle DePlush, both blacks.

Supt. Greenwood recommended against the name changes. "Sentiment," he said, was not such "to warrant" the change, noting, as well, that there could be "strong reaction" to any change in names.

He explained that there was an "ideal relationship" among the students at the Colma schools.

Bitter biting verbal exchanges between three blacks and a number of whites punctured the "101" meeting chamber atmosphere, and an impasse in the conflict loomed until Trustee Ed Tomasello, who had made a motion to deny a name-change, pointed out that Trustee Dorothy Adams had "an idea" that might prove to be the solution.

The idea, both explained, was to name the 101 Lincoln Avenue administrative structure after black leader King.

"101" never has had any other "name."

Until Tomasello spoke up, voices were being raised and neither the blacks and their name-change supporters nor the parents who objected to, and so no reason for a change seemed willing to alter their stands.

There was one suggestion that the Savage Intermediate School, a proposed yet undeveloped St. Francis Boulevard region facility be renamed in King's honor.

Another resident thought Sermonte High, which has an alumnus with sentimental attachments, might be renamed.

The Adams proposal charmed both factions, and the board was quick to adopt it, once given votes of acceptance from Mrs. Bradstreet and Mrs. DePlush.

And the trustees also voted to get busy with preparation of a suitable plaque or bust for the foyer of the administrative facility.

Someone in the once-captive audience—the late hour, nearly midnight, had taken its toll—pointed out to Board Chairman Joseph Lewkowitz that action on the request for a Robert Kennedy School had not been taken.

Lewkowitz registered surprise, then accused the women of attempting to rekindle the "conflict."

'Rainbow' At Capuchino Hi

The music department of Capuchino High School is sponsoring the production, "Finian's Rainbow," a musical play with the book by E. Y. Harburg and Fred Saidy, March 6-7, 13-14.

This delightful Irish fantasy about a crock of gold and leprechauns is neatly combined with social-conscious conflicts in America involving sharecroppers, labor exploitation and race hatred.

Jefferson Negotiations Are Resumed

Negotiations between administrators of the Jefferson Elementary School District and teachers—deadlocked for months in a salary dispute—will be resumed.

The decision came after the new district "negotiator"—attorney Paul Hupf, former municipal court judge—ruled against the filing of a declaratory relief action against the Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association last week.

Trustees, in accepting Hupf's recommendation, which concurred essentially with an earlie opinion given by the district attorney's office, directed Hupf to "get together" with the JCTA president, Mrs. Joan Hemphill, for discussions.

Such a meeting would be under the structure of the Winton Act, it was pointed out.

That there night be a further chance of negotiation—or discussions—came to light both in letter and verbal form from Mrs. Hemphill.

She told trustees:

"Teachers are more than eager to find an equitable solution . . . it should probably be discussed."

In a Feb. 20 letter to Supt. Frank Greenwood, Mrs. Hemphill stated:

"Teachers find it difficult to accept the fact that the board is unwilling to seek a just and honorable settlement. We would welcome conciliation, mediation, fact-finding or any other third party which could offer suggestions for settlement. The Executive Board urges you and the Board to seek such a method."

Hupf told trustees he did not think that a court would act on a declaratory relief action, because the one item for court clarification would involve the legality of the board action—and that, he said, would not resolve the dispute.

He felt the court would respond that the board already has acted. "You do have the authority to fix and to pay salaries, Hupf told trustees.

Drug Forums Scheduled For May

A series of four drug forums at which parents and youth will be challenged to offer their own solutions to the drug problem will be held at four different locations in the county in May, it was announced yesterday by Gary Hamilton, county human relations specialist.

Hamilton said the Comprehensive Health Planning Council has named a task force to organize workshops which will take on Fridays and Saturday during four weekends in May. It is hoped to attract at least 200 to 300 youths and adults to the informal workshops to exchange information and to come up with solutions to the drug problem, according to Hamilton.

The program is under the direction of Dr. David Schwartz, a physician with the County Mental Health Department. He will be assisted by Hamilton, Claudia Sampson of the county schools' office and Bob Wright of San Mateo's Damien House.

Dates and locations of the workshops will be announced later, Hamilton said. Information about the program can be obtained from the Comprehensive Health Planning Council and the San Mateo County office building in Redwood City.

Thief Gets Three Pistols

Daly City police are looking for a well-armed thief.

Colma Area To Receive D.C. Water

Following an hour-long study session on Feb. 24, the Daly City council hammered out the rough spots in an agreement to supply water on a continuing basis to a new commercial development in Colma.

The developer, Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, had earlier asked the council for a water service agreement, however the matter had been shelved for sometime because some city officials, including mayor Bernard J. Lycett, felt the development might be in competition with the city's own Serramonte Shopping Center and therefore not in the best interests of the city.

Revenues produced by the Serramonte Center are "substantial" and in a bedroom-type community such commercial enterprises help in keeping the tax rate down, mayor Lycett explained to CC&F representatives last night.

Daly City would receive no sales tax revenues from the "outside" development. The Colma complex would be expected to pay a double rate for water, however.

But councilman Frank Pacelli, owner of a stationary store in Serramonte, said he did not feel the new commercial complex, within 100 yards of Serramonte, would compete for business.

"I think it might attract more business to the general area," Pacelli said in indicating he favored the water agreement.

Interstate 380 Is Explained

A "purely informational" meeting is tentatively scheduled for March 12 at San Bruno city hall so the state division of highways can explain plans for the proposed route of interstate 380 through the city.

Mayo Neil Christal last week referred to the meeting, supposedly to be a two-way exchange of desires, as an "expose of events which are about to happen."

Christal, recently critical of the highway department, sent a letter, dated February 14, to Alan S. Hart, district engineer of the division of highways.

In the letter Christal cited a division of highways newsletter "which has just filtered through channels to this (his) office."

Apparently for Christal, the newsletter led him to believe that the division of highways was ignoring San Bruno in that they are not being consulted regarding freeway design.

"Please consider public relations and set a hearing on design and flow for your employes consideration as well as for the benefit and better education of the public," said Christal's letter.

The mayor said Hart had sent him a letter, which Councilman Karney Barberian read in full, and had apologized

In Hart's letter, dated February 19, the engineer said "The newsletter referred to some changes that are being considered along Highway 101. These changes are almost entirely outside the city limits of San Bruno. However, they could require minor revisions to the freeway agreements worked out over the years with San Bruno, South San Francisco, Millbrae and San Mateo County.

"New rules, at both federal and state levels," continued the letter, "require a hearing, or an opportunity for a hearing, before freeway agreements can be revised. Since the changes under consideration affect no Private) homes, we thought there was little likelihood that a hearing would be requested."

Hart also pointed out that during the entire process of designing the freeway the state has been in constant contact with San Bruno officials. "There has been almost daily consultation with city staff members on technical details," said Hart's letter.

"Funds are budgeted for 380 between 280 and El Camino Real. Also, future funds are programed for each subsequent link in the route, based on as continuous a construction schedule as possible," said Hart.
